SECRETARY COLBY PROCLAIMS RATIFICATION

WASHINGTON, August 26—The right of women to the ballot was formally made a part of the Constitution of the United States today when Secretary of State Colby proclaimed the ratification of the 19th amendment.

Colby announced the proclamation when he arrived at his office today after signing it shortly before at his home here. The official certification that Tennessee had become the 36th state to ratify the amendment was taken at his home today. Suffrage leaders who waited until a late hour last night for Tennessee certification went hurriedly to the State Department. They cheered when told the last steps had been taken to make the amendment operative. The Tennessee certification was taken to Colby's home by Charles L. Kooke master of ceremonies of the state department. Suffrage leaders had expected Colby to make the ceremony proclaiming the amendment a public one and were evidently disappointed. They requested him to go through the ceremony again for their benefit and for moving picture men.

NEWS FROM THE WAR ZONE

By WEBB MILLER

LONDON, August 26—With the Anglo-Italian ultimatum to the Russians scheduled to expire tomorrow evening unconfirmed reports circulated here today declared that the Bolsheviks planned to attack the British possessions in the east. The Pall Mall Gazette said it had learned from authoritative sources that Moscow had asked Lee Kameness Bolshevik trade commissioner to leave London even before the expiration of the time limit set in Balfour note. Kameness was credited with saying that his departure would be equal to a declaration of war against Great Britain.

PARIS, August 26—Polish forces have entered Grodno according to dispatches to the Matin today.

BERLIN, August 26—The Polish army while still driving the Russians before them are facing a serious shortage in ammunition according to semi-official advices received here today. This situation, it was believed, would offer the Reds an opportunity to reform their shattered units and make a determined stand along the Russo-Polish front. At the same time it was learned that the Bolsheviks will prepare a new offensive along the River Nieman which flows northwest through Grodno. Twenty-seven thousand Russians north of Warsaw have crossed the border line into east Prussia.

PARIS, 1:40 p. m.—The Bolsheviks have evacuated Vilna and the Lithuanian troops have occupied the railway station there according to Warsaw dispatches received by the French foreign office today.

SISTER OF CORK MAYOR APPEALS TO LLOYD-GEORGE TO SAVE LIFE

LONDON, August 26—May MacSwiney, sister of Lord Mayor MacSwiney of Cork, sent a message to Premier Lloyd George today telling him that he would be held responsible if her brother dies.

The British foreign office was informed by Howard Redmond, nephew of the late John Redmond, who appealed to King George in MacSwiney's behalf that it could not change its attitude. Shortly after noon MacSwiney, near death in Brixton prison from a hunger strike, was said to be "barely breathing." He has been unable to sleep for many hours.

laughter Miss Harry Johnson in Buffalo. Miss Salome F. Welch, who has been visiting with her grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Geo. D. Welch on Bridge street returned to her home Wednesday in Buffalo, Pa.

The members of the Daisy Bee Sewing Circle and families of Paradise surprised Mrs. Walter Fargo at her home last evening at being her birthday anniversary. A delightful evening was spent. At 12 p. m. delicious refreshments were served. At 12:30 the guests departed wishing Mrs. Fargo many more happy birthdays.

SECOND SESSION OF S. S. CONVENTION PROCEEDINGS

An early morning prayer meeting at 6:30. Rev. M. M. Snyder was the leader and there were 50 in attendance.

The session opened at nine o'clock with devotional exercises in charge of Rev. F. A. Lawson pastor of the Wallaceton Methodist church.

Mr. Myers occupied the first period and delivered a great address. His subject was "Hitting on Four Cylinders." Feeling that ends in feeling is the death of feeling. We need more perspiration than we are putting into Sunday school work. A good many Sunday school people only hit on three cylinders.

The four cylinders are the four splendid outreachs we have in our Sunday school work. The Sunday School Association reaches more people than any other organization in the world. It reaches all ages and classes of people. It is the meeting pot for the children of the world. It has a vital message.

The Sunday school has a two fold purpose to win and to teach. It has a practical message. It ministers to today's needs. The power of God is the power that runs the Sunday school. The machinery of the Sunday school is no good unless it is functioning.

Dr. Brubaker delivered his address on "The Country Sunday School." It was very practical and greatly enjoyed by all in attendance. Over fifty per cent of the people in the United States live in the country. The country is the source of food and clothing. It provides a large part of the men and women for the different professions in life.

There are some communities where the people are constantly moving and some where there are few children. There are some communities where the people are intelligent and some where they are ignorant. We have to study the community in which we live.

There are some difficulties in country church work, the migration of people and the over-lapping of churches. There is a limit to devout rationalism. It is not a question of competition but a question of co-operation.

The country Sunday school presents an opportunity to study the ways of God in nature. It has the opportunity to study problems of rural welfare. It has to get after all the people. The secret of country church problems is community life, unselfishness.

It is the mission of the country church not only to make the church surrounding more attractive but to make the homes more attractive. A great many farmers make the mistake of building a fence around the boys and girls and not allowing them any enjoyment at all. We must not expect our boys and girls to sprout wings in the world. They are social creatures. They like play. We ought to trust our boys and girls. We will never do away with the dance and the gambling den unless we give our boys and girls some play life. We can't win young people by saying "Don't."

The supreme end of all our work is to win the community for Jesus Christ. Mrs. L. A. Banta, superintendent of the Home Department presented her report. She reported 20 Home Departments in the county.

Mrs. S. C. Watts, corresponding secretary, made her report. She reported 226 Sunday schools in the county. She reported one new school and five schools revived.

The following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year. President, S. C. Watts, Clearfield. Vice Pres., E. D. Hoyt, Sabula. Recording Secretary, Rev. J. P. McQuay, Clearfield.

Corresponding secretary, Mrs. S. C. Watts, Clearfield. Treasurer, R. M. Hanev, Clearfield. Supt. Administration, Rev. M. M. Snyder, Mahaffey. Supt. Young People's Division, Roy

ST. LOUIS CLUB BOYCOTTS MAYS

BOSTON, Aug. 26—Members of the St. Louis American League baseball club have agreed not to take part in any game Carl Mays, Yankee twirler who pitched the ball that killed Ray Chapman, Cleveland shortstop, is assigned to work it was learned today. The agreement was reached at a meeting which took place in the Red Sox club house. Some of the St. Louis players are also declared to have received letters from members of six other clubs of the League declaring they will not play if Mays is on the mound.

LYNCHING REPORTED IN N. C.

BURLINGHAMTON, N. C., Aug. 26—Jack Jeffries, aged 18, a negro, was lynched near Graham late yesterday afternoon for assaulting Mary Lee Radd, 6 year old white girl, according to word received here today.

I. Fulton, Clearfield. Supt. Adult Division, Hon. Jos. E. Phillips, Clearfield. Supt. Temperance Dept., Mrs. G. B. Benn, Coalport. Supt. Home Department, Mrs. L. A. Banta, Clearfield. Supt. Missionary Dept., Rev. W. R. Jones, Lumber City, Pa. Supt. Teacher Training, W. P. Frostle, Clearfield.

An invitation was presented for the convention to go to DuBois next year and it was accepted. Consequently the convention will meet in DuBois next year.

The County Association as an expression of the appreciation of the splendid work of President S. C. Watts and his wife our corresponding secretary, voted to pay their expenses to the state convention which meets in Harrisburg in October.

Wednesday Afternoon

The session opened with devotional exercises conducted by President Watts.

Mrs. John M. Urey superintendent of the Children's Division presented her report.

Roy J. Fulton superintendent of the Young People's Division made his report. He told of the Older Boys' and Girls' conference held in Clearfield in February. He reported 188 delegates in attendance. He told of the Father and Son and Mother and Daughter banquets which were held throughout the county.

Dr. Brubaker occupied the next period. He spoke on "Sunday School Administration." In Sunday School work we are dealing with living souls instead of dead material. It is therefore very necessary that we should know what kind of product we want to turn out. We emphasize trained teachers but we fail to emphasize the function of the various officers and their efficiency. No man is fit to be on the official board unless he is interested in childhood and youth. Every local church should have a committee on religious education. A wise superintendent of the Sunday school will use his associates.

Sunday School superintendents should be Christians. A wise Sunday school leader will have standards and will work up to them. The Sunday School board should meet once a month. In the administration work we deal with programs. Some Sunday Schools don't have programs. Every program that we build must be built about the pupils. The Sunday school and the church must work together.

Hon. J. L. Phillips represented the Adult Bible Class movement. He reported 154 organized Bible classes in the county.

Rev. G. W. Hatch, superintendent of the Temperance department made his report.

The Enrollment committee reported 182 delegates in attendance the largest in the history of the county.

R. A. Zentmyer of Tyrone, vice president of the State Association was introduced and made an admirable address on "The Boy, A-set of Liability." Take a census of the pos-

BROOKVILLE WINS BY ONLY ONE SCORE

The Clearfield team, with their usual generosity, presented Brookville with another game yesterday afternoon and now Brookville stands the undisputed victor over Clearfield regardless of the fact that Clearfield fans always discounted the playing abilities of the Jefferson county magnates. While Martin and Kilroy made a quintet of errors, the stick work of the locals was good and some of the playing brilliant. Teamwork, however, was lacking and many plays and omissions were made which cost the locals the game.

Following is the box score:

FORESTRY DEPT. BUSY CUTTING MANY FIRE LINES

HARRISBURG, PA., August 25—To afford increased protection against forest fires, the Karlsruhe State Forest in Clearfield county is being gradually covered by a network of trails and fire lines. These will eventually extend into all sections of the forest, providing access to fires and making it available to persons who frequent the forest for sport and recreation.

In his weekly report to the Pennsylvania Department of Forestry, Forester W. H. Horning, of Keeweenaw, said Forest Rangers W. J. Buck and M. A. Barr are moving and brushing out the roads and trails in preparation for the fall fire season. They have now completed the removal of material from about fifty miles of trails and fire lines.

Forester William F. Dague, of Clearfield, has reported that his assistants are weeding and cleaning the nursery. The young forest trees growing from seeds planted this spring have made a satisfactory growth. Good crops of seed are expected from the hemlock trees in his region this fall by Forester Dague. He plans to gather cones to procure seed for his fall and spring sowings. He will make special effort to collect large quantities of white pine cones, if they can be found in satisfactory quantities.

Mrs. Althea and Freda Carr left today to spend a week with A. E. Carr and family of Johnstown.

Mrs. Grace Leas, Pearl Waite and Eugene Waite are spending a few days at Butler.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Turner left today to visit Mr. Turner's sister at Johnstown. Also her sister and brother of Pittsburgh.

Charles A. Coward and Mrs. Zephah M. Turner both of Clearfield, were united in marriage yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock by Rev. C. C. Shively at the West Side M. E. church at 9:30.

They were attended by Cleo Leary and Mrs. Emma Hancy.

CLEARFIELD SHOPS ALL READY FOR ANNUAL DOLLAR DAY BARGAIN FEAST

The stage is set, the orchestra is playing the opening overture, the crowds are beginning to assemble and we're off!

When Old Sol sticks his head up over Brewery Hill tomorrow morning, he will look upon a shopping district ready or the annual rush of Dollar Day. He will see crowds of eager shoppers congregating around the stores of the shopping district, awaiting the opening of doors that will show them that Clearfield merchants can give as great offerings as can be given by merchants anywhere.

In none of the four previous Dollar Day events have the merchants entered into the spirit of the occasion as they have this year. Merchandise is offered at prices that will be eye openers and in talks with various merchants The Progress man has found that many price sacrifices have been made.

The weatherman promises a fine day with moderate temperature. The merchants promise a feast of bargains. Promise yourself that after a perusal of the various advertisements you'll be on hand with your bargain instinct working overtime.

Do not think today's paper is the same as yesterday. There are many new ads and several merchants have enlarged the scope of their offerings. Look it over thoroughly.

STATE HELPING ITS DISABLED MEN TO EARN A LIVING

HARRISBURG, PA., Aug. 26—The Pennsylvania Department of Labor and Industry, through its Bureau of Rehabilitation has offered free service to four persons in Clearfield county, who have been permanently disabled in industrial accidents. The figures were announced in a report to Commissioner Clifford B. Connolly by S. S. Riddle, the bureau chief.

Similar assistance has been offered without cost to 798 industrial cripples throughout the State, and 396 of them have registered with the bureau. Twenty of the disabled persons have been placed in schools for various training courses, and the remainder have been helped to positions in industrial establishments for training or in employment for which they are fit.

Artificial legs, arms and hands have been supplied by the bureau to 61 cripples. Nineteen persons were paid weekly maintenance costs not exceeding $15.00 per week during their training periods.

One young machinist, who lost a hand in an accident, is taking a course in mechanical engineering at the expense of the bureau. A laborer, who earned $4.00 a day, lost an arm in a cement block factory. The bureau found employment for him in a plant, operating a glass blowing machine, where he is now earning from $23.00 to $40.00 a week. His income is greater with one good arm than it was with two arms.

A number of cripples handled by the bureau are young persons, who have been returned to public schools; others are in business colleges, some are learning wheeling, telegraphy, while still others are in trade and technical institutions.

Walter Gardner of Madera and Mrs. Mary Miller of Oseola were united in marriage yesterday by Rev. C. C. Shively at the West Side M. E. church at 9:30.

ALIMENA AND MOTT WRESTLE TO DRAW

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Aug. 26—Peter Alimena, of Adrian and Ralph Mott, of Mahaffey, premier lightweight wrestlers, went to a draw in a grueling match at the fair last evening with fully 1,000 per on watching the bout.

Alimena won the first fall in 3 minutes and 30 seconds with a half pin and arm lock.

After an hour's wrestling for the second fall in which Mott showed the greater aggressive power the match was declared a draw by the referee.

Fred Barth, of Pittsburgh former middleweight wrestling champion of the world, officiated as referee.

The maleness of the wrestling match and the heavy dust of the track in front of the grandstand detracted somewhat from the match, which was, however, one of the largest fought over staged by local fans.

COX IS ENROUTE TO PITTSBURG WITH RENEWED PROMISES

By HERBERT WALKER

Aboard Governor James M. Cox's special train en route to Pittsburgh, August 26—With an air of confidence Governor James M. Cox today was speeding across Indiana and Ohio to Pittsburgh where he will prove his charge of a fifteen million dollar fund to finance the campaign of Senator Harding for President. He promises to make good his allegations at Pittsburgh. From a reliable source it was learned that Cox will reveal that the Republican financial goal was for a few millions more than fifteen.

Governor Cox said: "I am going to produce evidence to prove my charge that the Republicans are seeking a campaign fund of at least fifteen millions. I shall convince the American people that a plot has been formed, and I can hazard a guess that on Friday morning many men who believed it was a Republican 'cinch' will have changed their minds."

CHICAGO CUBS TO PLAY FOR HARDING

The Chicago Cubs will play the semi-professional local team here on September 2. Senator Harding will pitch the first ball. Senator Harding is a base ball crank and is anxious to see a real ball game.

Who can remember when a quart would buy only one vote?
A self-made man hardly ever feels like boasting over the job.
There will probably be some demand for political carpenters to nail campaign lies.
Even a barber might be able to tell a man a few things that would be good for him.
There are no moss-backs any more—nobody stays in one place long enough to gather moss.
It is evident that the man who says women will vote as their husbands do is not a married man.

IS YOUR JOB IMPORTANT TO YOU?
"How much vu gon' to get?"
"Don't know."
"Huh! You are a bright one."
Usually that is the way a small person in a small job looks at the question of salary. It is the biggest thing in the world to him. But here is what one big man in a big job thinks of the pay envelope end of his job and it is just because he had always had this point of view that Harry B. Thayer is now president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, as reported by Forbes magazine.
"Don't think of yourself at all. Don't waste an hour of your time scheming or planning to get promotion. Don't worry about how big an increase in your salary you can contrive to get—don't let your mind dwell on money at all if you can help it. Throw yourself, body, soul and spirit, into whatever you are doing. Become so interested and so engrossed in your tasks that you have neither time nor inclination to think about yourself or your prospects or the possibility of a 'raise.'
"Don't imagine for one moment that your superiors don't know what you are doing or how valuable an employee you are. Some fellows have the impression that if they are in a very large organization their work is buried and that none of the bosses has a chance to know just what they are accomplishing. The truth is that in every organization, no matter how large or how small, some one is taking notice of any employee who shows special ability."

PESSIMISM OUT OF PLACE
The Pessimist we always have with us. On every hand, in every age, are men who delight to drag a soapbox out into the streets of the world and cry out to all who will listen that mankind is on the highway to perdition. Sooner or later they are run down by traffic in which gruesome fate they find complete vindication for their theories.
Beyond dispute the world is as gravely troubled today as ever in its long and laborious history. But what is important to note is that it has been troubled gravely before. And it has always come out scarred but sound. Ever since shortly after the dawn of history there have been anarchists and reactionaries and profiteers and greedy fellows of every type in every walk of life. They are forgotten now, as the trouble makers of today will be forgotten in another century. Man remembers long only those who serve him well.
These is no need for men to shake their heads, despairingly, in fear that civilization and organized government are bound for destruction. Nations have been overthrown before now and empires have expired but mankind kept on, developing, through the centuries, his knowledge and faith and power. We shall come through this storm somehow, and be the better for the experience.
But there is no progress through wishing. Man grows only by working. It is not enough to have faith that we shall come out of the valley of our discontent. We must have the faith that inspires work and the seal of precept that enthruses example. If we would live again in the piping times of peace and plenty we must labor for them.

The Part the Laundry Plays in Back-to-School Days

Back-to-school days are here — more work and less help for mother.

Clothes to be gotten into shape—youngsters to be dressed and fussed over—little folks too busy and excited to be much use around the house.

But fortunately for mother she has no longer to worry about the clean clothes problem—each week she is sending her family bundle to us.

She's always sure of a liberal supply of clean things without any of the old-time slaving over a wash-tub, or waiting on and watching over careless laundresses.

The spick-and-spanness so noticeable in school children today is a laundry product.

Why not give the kiddies and yourself the benefit of it?

A minute at the phone will bring our driver. Have us take over your washday worries and your family bundle.

If Backachy Or Kidneys Bother

Eat less meat and take a glass of Salts to flush out Kidneys.
Drink plenty water.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks, who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Religious Belief About Dove.
The people of northern Europe used to say that the ring dove (a partly domesticated bird well known to them) perched near the cross when Jesus was dying, and waited out its sorrow, to alleviate the sufferings of him who was crucified. A dove with six wings is one of the types of the Church of Christ.

There was a large audience present at the closing session. The song service was conducted by Dr. Collins. Dr. Brubaker and Mr. Myers delivered great addresses full of inspiration and instruction. This brought to a close one of the most successful conventions in the history of the country.

ALASKA A LAND RICH IN SOIL AND FULL OF OPPORTUNITY

A good many people think of Alaska as just one huge ice berg, a region of perpetual ice and snow, broken only by brief and uncomfortable summers.

As a matter of fact the summers are delightful, the climate is bracing and if the winters are cold there, they are also cold in Minnesota and northern New York.

Alaska is a young man's country.

It offers above any other field opportunities for the red-blooded, the kind of pioneers who settled America, conquered the west and built up the civilization of Australia.

Youth with adventurous spirit who are chafing under the more settled conditions of the East must be attracted by the lure of this great land, now under the flag of the United States.

There is little doubt that in time Alaska will be as thickly populated as Norway and Sweden, for its agricultural and mineral resources far exceed those of the two northern European lands.

First of all is the call of gold. Alaskan fields have already produced for times, and the supply has yet hardly been touched.

They raise strawberries in Alaska, and wheat grows six feet high. The fishing industry offers annexation the scope. With proper capital and enterprise this country might lead the world in fish foods. Of course, there are obstacles. It is no country for weaklings. But to the strong and unafraid no spot on earth offers opportunity with a larger capital.

Not without their charm are the game resources. The streams teem with fish. Virgin forests, where, as the Irishman says, "the hand of man has never set foot" are alive with game. Bear, moose, wild sheep and goats, fox and other fur-bearing animals abound.

Besides the abundance of birds, such as duck, geese and the like, make it a sportsman's paradise.

When the railroads, now under construction by the government, are completed and adequate water transportation is made possible by the Merchant Marine bill of 1916, the rush to Alaska will begin in earnest.

There is oil there, too. Many Alaskans believe that their territory's wealth in oil will surpass the wealth that comes from its gold.

Dr. Brooks of the Interior Department, probably knows more than any other man in the United States about Alaska, he is an expert geologist and is now investigating the oil resources of that country. Governor Ridge declares in his official capacity after making numerous investigations that he believes Alaska's future oil production will be enormous.

The new Water Power bill will see cut for Alaska the development of millions of water power, thus saving fuel coal and oil for manufacturing use. Locally, billions of horsepower are now running duty to the sea on the unhampered streams of this territory.

Of low grade coal there is an abundance. Anthracite has also been found in two fields, but has not as yet been developed.

The government railroad new building leaves Seward at the head of Resurrection Bay and extends four hundred and ninety miles north to Fairbanks, not far from the Yukon and the Arctic Circle. It cuts the mainland nearly in half. Four hundred and thirty-six miles of this road have been built and are in operation, and one hundred and nine remain to be constructed.

Alaska needs more people. It needs people not only to hunt the game and to dig for the gold, but also the homemaker who will till the soil and build up a permanent civilization. It needs especially more women. Most of the farmers there are bachelors.

Alaska is the ideal summer resort for tourists. In the United States proper we travel a thousand miles to see a majestic mountain covered with snow or to look at a glacier. In Alaska you travel day after day in a great of resplendent snow white peaks and the most granitic objects of nature.

Alaska needs development. At present it is only cold miners that are lured by the prospect of rapid wealth. Many of the pioneers remained. The dominant thought of Alaska however, today is that what made Alaska a Mecca for gold digging a few years ago was but the surface of outcroppings of enormous hidden mineral wealth yet to be uncovered.

Too many things are still forbidden in Alaska. There are too many government restrictions and prohibitions. Secretary Payne says he believes that if the law permitted young men to select homesteads and at the same time did not require them to work and live on these homesteads, this would give them an opportunity to work in other lines while clearing off their land for a permanent abiding place. Such changes in the law would do much toward giving Alaska the needed population.

A recent exchange says that it has been many a day now, since anybody has believed that Alaska was well named by those who called it "Seward's Folly" or that in giving Russia $7,000,000 and a title more for it the famous Secretary paid a price absurdly high.

SHE CAN ANSWER QUESTIONS

Miss Pearl Burnett Is in Charge of Statistical Section at the National Headquarters

Whenever a body wants to know how many pests the American Legion has, where they are located, who their officers are or any other information of a statistical nature their questions are answered by Miss Pearl Burnett of Indianapolis.

Miss Burnett has charge of the records in the statistical section of the organization division at American Legion national headquarters and what she doesn't know about the Legion and its multitudinous integral units probably isn't worth knowing anyhow.

Affiliation Seems Certain

A close affiliation between the American Legion, the C. V. R. and the Great War Veterans Association of Canada is the aim expressed in a resolution that the executive council of the Canadian organization recently adopted at Winnipeg. It was recommended that negotiations be opened with the American bodies. The resolution is to be presented to the Great War Veterans association for approval and it is believed that its adoption is certain.

Patriotism Is Normal

No one may impugn the Americanism of the Legion, its long and honorable record without getting into a quarrel with the Post No. 27. At a recent meeting adopted a resolution denying in unmistakable terms that the patriotism of that section was other than normal. The action followed a recent statement by a Legionaire accusing the patriotism of harboring 'alien slackers'.

Rouge Withers Greek Girls

Although most Greek girls are naturally very pretty, they begin to put on powder from a very early age—the cheeks bright red, the eyebrows and lashes deepest black, and very pale lips. The result is that they are withered old women at forty, and thus a where are ugly females to be found than beneath the blue skies of this class land.

Coats Carefully Designed

When a coat is designed to be a fashion as well as a protection, it is not enough for the designer to make a coat that is comfortable and practical. It must also be a work of art. The designer must take into account the latest fashion trends and the needs of the wearer. The coat must be both functional and beautiful. The designer must also consider the quality of the materials and the construction of the coat. The coat must be able to withstand the elements and last for many years. The designer must also consider the price of the coat. The coat must be affordable for the average woman. The designer must also consider the style of the coat. The coat must be in vogue and popular. The designer must also consider the fit of the coat. The coat must be comfortable and flattering. The designer must also consider the details of the coat. The coat must have a high collar, a long sleeve, and a full skirt. The coat must be made of a high quality material. The coat must be well constructed. The coat must be a masterpiece of design and craftsmanship.

This coat is the left of the group is made of any one of the soft plain outlines and could not be much simpler. It is cut on a simple line. The collar and cuffs are covered with silk embroidery in self color. The skirt is cut across the back and at each side of the front there is a heavy silk cord which is used as a girdle that is at the front. A similar cord with unfinished by ornaments is used to finish the square, full pockets at each side.

The addition of very ornamental pockets and a novel treatment of the belt helped out the use of buttons in two sizes, convert the plain coat at the right into an interesting model for younger women. It requires a plain or mixed fabric.

"HOBO" REPORTER, ONLY ONE OF HIS KIND, A PENNSYLVANIAN

FRANK H. BROOKS, Howard R. Haddock, was the only hobo reporter I ever knew. He played the role of his own volition. He was born to the cloth. His father was a member of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania. The son had all the advantages of a noble birth.

In his youth, after he had hit the gravel in his attempt to make a fortune, he never lost his activity. He was a constant in seeking a brand new place as he would have been in his best days, asking a high price for a place on his dunces.

He traveled a circuit, he popped out to him all the time and went with the regularity of the seasons. He was a member of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania. The son had all the advantages of a noble birth. He was a constant in seeking a brand new place as he would have been in his best days, asking a high price for a place on his dunces.

This eminent Californian has an independent and assured place among American fiction writers. His popularity is immense and to the present day he occupies a position as an exponent of the West, somewhat similar to Bret Harte's in the last generation. Millions have read "Cappy Ricks," "The Long Chance," and "The Valley of the Giants." In a later story, "Wabber-Man's Man," his principal characters are Americans, but the most stirring incidents occur in one of those deeply on-the-surface but fiercer underneath revolution of Central America countries. You will have the pleasure of reading it as a serial in this paper. Be sure to get the 21st long installment.

PREPARING SILO FOR FUTURE USE

Every Farmer Should See That
Structure Is in Proper Condition for Corn Crop.

BEST COATING FOR INTERIOR

Go Over Huge Receptacle Carefully
and Seal Cracks With Tar and
Oakum—in Filling Prevent Air
Pockets by Packing.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture)

Corn raising time—that period when a portion of the corn crop is prepared and stored in the silo—will soon be here. Every silo owner should see that the structure is in best condition to receive the succulent corn crop.

As the farmer gives the silo the thorough "once over" he must look out, first of all, for proper protection for the interior. The annual application of a mixture of coal tar and creosote both inside and outside, adds greatly to the life of a wood silo, as it protects the wood against decay. The coal tar creosote solution is relatively inexpensive and the cost of treating the silo with this material is so slight that no silo owner should allow his silo to stand without this protection. It is also essential that he tighten loose hoops in order that no cracks or crevices allow air seepage. If the hoops have been kept tight however during the period that the silo is empty, they should be loosened just before filling to prevent buckling or breaking of hoops due to swelling when the dry stalks absorb moisture from the green silage.

Look for Cracks in Old Silos.

In the case of wooden silos it may be advisable to cement around the bottom of the silo where the foundation joins the superstructure. In the case of old silos it will be profitable for the farmer to go over them carefully to look for cracks, and where he finds them to seal with tar and oakum, wood filler or other effective material. If the bottom of the silo has decayed slightly, the owner may saw off what ever amount is necessary and then by the use of blocking gradually lower the silo to the foundation again cementing around the base as previously described.

When the silo is upright and able to stand the next step inspection, the owner may consider the actual work of filling. A wise precaution is to place several feet of straw in the bottom of the silo to act as a guide and to prevent the bottom of the silos and the feed is ordinary silage. Farmers collect their manure, proper for silage, for use in the silo and the silage is a valuable feed without the silage. The silage is a valuable feed without the silage.

Must Tramp It Down Well

In the actual operation of filling the silo it is of paramount importance that no air pockets be left in the silage. It is found that the diameter of the silo should be at least 12 feet in diameter. It is found that the silo should be at least 12 feet in diameter. It is found that the silo should be at least 12 feet in diameter.

The proper sealing of the silo also is important because when the silo is correctly topped, or there usually is a minimum loss of the silage. A good plan is to top the silo with the last three or four loads of corn which are run into the silo. Straw or coarse hay may also be used as a topping. The tops should be sown over the top of the contents after it has been thoroughly moistened if necessary, although as a rule the corn itself will do the trick. It is most enough without extra watering.

DOING WORTH WHILE WORK

Worth of time is not necessarily the reward of the one who does something. Success is not always a matter of such standards. One may be a hero and yet be unknown to the world, and the world may be unknown to the hero. The hero is the one who does something for the benefit of the world.

The people of the Southern Appalachian, of pure English or Scotch-Irish stock, in some sections are scarcely farther advanced than were the Elizabethan men. Buried in the mountains, they have stood still for generations. To help a few such a score of years ago the Kentucky State Federation of Women's Clubs sent out a dozen cultured young women into one of the most benighted and feudal regions of the state to look over the ground and see what could be done in early twentieth century enlightenment to that region.

They penetrated 40 miles from a railroad. They found the ignorance they expected, but they also found a desire for instruction. Two of the young women, seeing the need, decided to spend their lives there serving these people in the way in which they most needed.

From that beginning schools have been established that have served to evolve once live counties in the heart of the mountain. For a few hours a day a boy can obtain in academic education and receive in tuition in some line of industry that tend to make him an efficient workman. Girls are taught sewing and cooking in addition to their mental studies. Nor is training in the social sciences neglected for either sex. Hundreds have had their mental horizons widened to a state of intelligence where there was darkness before.

Head Grows Till Man Is 40.

Spending generally a man's head, particularly if he is a thinking man, continues to increase in size until he is forty or fifty years of age.

Columbus and Friday.

It is said that on Friday Columbus set out from Spain to seek a new world. On Friday he first caught sight of land. On Friday he landed on his return voyage. On Friday he sailed back in Spain. On Friday he first sighted the American mainland on his next voyage. On Friday he first set his foot upon it and again on Friday he landed in his native land.

Horsepower.

The nominal horsepower of an engine is determined by an approximate formula of which that of the National automobile chamber of commerce is the most common. According to this the horsepower is equal to the square of the diameter of the cylinder times the number of cylinders divided by 40 and one-half.

WHAT TO HAVE FOR LUNCHEON.

For a warm weather luncheon, and this means one easy to digest and not too heavy, try a fish dish for the main course, a salad and a light dessert with an iced or a hot drink as one prefers.

Curried Salmon.—Chop a small onion very fine and fry brown in one tablespoonful of butter. Mix one teaspoonful of curry powder with one tablespoonful of flour and a pinch of salt. Stir into the butter. Add slowly one cupful of hot water, stirring briskly. When the sauce is thick add one cupful of flaked salmon and cook until well heated.

Curran Pie.—Bake a pastry shell and fill with the following: Mash one cupful of currants with one cupful of sugar or use the same quantity of fresh currant jam, prepared by using crushed currants and sugar in equal measures, or slightly less sugar. Add two beaten egg yolks, two tablespoonfuls of flour, a cupful of water, mix well and cook until smooth and thick. Cool, fill the shell and cover with a meringue made from the beaten whites with two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Brown in the oven and serve at once.

Peas and Carrots.—Clean and dice enough carrots to make two and one-half cupfuls. Soak until tender; put through a sieve, add butter and flour, one tablespoonful each; one beaten egg one-half teaspoonful of salt and a few dashes of pepper and a grating of nutmeg. Press into a ring mold, cover with greased paper and steam twenty minutes. Fill the center with cooked seasoned peas and garnish with parsley.

Tomato Hors d'Oeuvres.—Arrange slices of tomato cut one-half inch thick on thin rounds of browned cornmeal mush. Cover the tomato with a paste made of cottage cheese mixed with a few chopped nut meats and add a seasoning of chopped chives and relishes. Garnish with radish roses or with olives. Serve at dinner.

Fruit Sherbet.—Take one can of blue apple or one pint of fresh fruit, one pint of sugar, one pint of water and one tablespoonful of gelatin. Mix and freeze.

Fresh Linen Every Day

Wear all the clean clothes you like! Bulging hampers of soiled things are swiftly washed and hung on wash-day by the ABC Electric Laundry.

Some electric washers lift, dip, agitate and rinse the fabrics in a tub of steady water. Others rock the fabrics, forcing them back and forth. Both ways have their advantages.

The ABC Electric Laundry does both--and doubly capital. We have a combination of these two good methods, so that the clothes are all done-- swiftly, gently, carefully, on our great round wheel.

Simple, sturdy, time-tried, built by process makers and long endorsed by Good Housekeeping Institute, the ABC Electric Laundry offers the advantage of which "Het" had made up in advance. It so happened, and "Het" knew that the member had made a few remarks the day previous on a local measure. The member was most effusive in his appreciation. As "Het" folded the paper and hid it in his pocket he said with a much earned tress, as a lawyer in asking for a retainer, "That will cost you twenty-five one dollar bill."

He got them, and beat his way on the new train for Kansas City. His route was from coast to coast. Sometimes on the cross pieces of a freight car, sometime in a cattle car, but never in a passenger car. He would have declined a berth in a Pullman. At one time he "beat it" from St. Paul to San Francisco when he had enough in his wallet to make the trip in a sleeper.

When he was at his best he was city editor of the St. Joseph (Mo.) Herald when C. B. Wilkinson was the owner and editor. Then he was an athlete in figure, and a welcome guest in the homes of the beauty and fashion for which "old St. Joe" was then famous. One of his friends in St. Joseph was Joe Toole, a young attorney who always wore a "wall-to-wall" coat in his office and in court. Toole went West, and afterwards became governor of Colorado.

Refused a Governor's Invitation. On one of his trans-continental trips, "Het" called on Governor Toole at the mansion. He presented the same appearance as in Chicago when he called to see Mr. Stone. The governor had a state function on that night, and told "Het" he would pay for a shave, a haircut and a society suit if "Het" would attend the dinner.

"Het" never hesitated for a sentence. "If you feel that way about it, Joe," he said, "why not buy the beer and give a handout for whatever you like. Society clothes would spoil the game; as for the dinner, society food never agreed with me."

That was the last story I ever heard about Howard Hetfield, except that about his death—when he asked to be buried just as he was, and that no headstone bearing his name should mark his grave.

I doubt this last. It is pleasant to think that his body was sent back to his old home in Pennsylvania and was buried beside his people who had always, as I was told, sent word to him to "come home" when he "got tired of the game."

TEN POSTS ADOPT ORPHANS

A. E. F. Men, Home Again, Show They Have Not Forgotten Fatherless French Children.

When the A. E. F. packed all its troubles in its old kit bag and sailed for home loaded down with German helmets, it left behind in France 3,000 little war orphans which it had adopted during the war and for whose maintenance and education it had been paying. There was hardly an outfit in France which at one time was not in communication with its tiny mascot, a communication of a delightfully friendly nature that shellfire, mud and cooties could not interrupt.

Now the A. E. F. is back home again and hundreds of thousands have enlisted in the ranks of the American Legion. Consequently, with the memories of the letters of petite Jean and petite Jeanette fresh in their minds, the one-time godfathers of the expeditionary forces are again adopting the war orphans of France.

So far ten posts have adopted orphans, and a heavy enrollment on the list of godfathers is expected. It costs only $75 to maintain an orphan for a year, the funds being forwarded to national headquarters in Indianapolis, where they are turned over to the American Red Cross, which is assigning the children and attending to all the details of the work on the other side.

Looking Ahead.

Little Mary, aged ten, gazed admiringly at the diamond rings glittering on the fingers of her grandmother. "When I marry," said the child, "I suppose I will get these rings as a wedding present." Up spoke her brother Bob, aged seven. "Not on your sweet life," said he. "You get one of them; the other goes to my wife!"

LEGION HOPES TO SOLVE MYSTERY OF UNWITNESSED DISAPPEARANCES

The American Legion is carrying on the search for solutions to more than 2,000 individual death and disappearance mysteries among soldiers and sailors of the American Expeditionary Forces. These are cases where official action has run its course and terminated with the always brief and sometimes conflicting reports of "missing in action," "killed in battle" or "presumed to be dead." In each case it is claimed that definite or detailed information has not been received by the family of the soldier or sailor in question.

How many more than 2,007 such cases there may be is not known, but the American Legion Weekly has received that number of letters from the kin and friends of missing men. There are instances where it appears that men sailed for France and straightway disappeared from the face of the earth. No conclusive word ever has been received of their fate. There are cases by the score of men reported "wounded" or "slightly wounded" and no other word, until, months later, perhaps, the curt official announcement of "presumed to be dead." Cases are reported of men reported dead, then wounded, later missing, later "returned to duty." But the men have not come home. There are cases where men have been reported dead on a certain date, but members of their families received letters written by their soldier kin's own hand at a later date. There are cases where families have received unofficial report that their soldier kin was seen alive after the date of his official demise.

By far the largest class of letters, however, are those from gold-star mothers seeking word from a comrade who was with her son when he fell. The War Department—which, considering everything, has been remarkably accurate in accounting for casualties—has reported the date and place. Mother desires simply such details as will enable her to reconstruct in her mind—so many write—the scene in which her boy made the great sacrifice.

The "Roll Call" department in the American Legion Weekly where these communications are published is the most poignant personal column in the world. Every item carries its burden of human sorrow or breathes a hope that will not die. It is a column which, in bald brevity, sums up the heroism of the bravest of America and the trials of those who stayed behind and day by weary day carry on the search for those who did not come back. The greatest human interest stories in the world are told in scant paragraphs such as these:

94TH AERO SQUADRON—Homer May, Box 116, Hildenville, Okla., would like to hear from someone who knew Lieut. Raymond J. Saunders, and who could give details relative to his death in France and where he was buried. Last seen in combat with twelve enemy planes over Breuille, about fifteen miles northwest of Verdun, Oct. 22, 1918.

JOHN W. HOTZ, formerly 38th Co., 152nd Depot Brigade, Camp Upton, N. Y. Who knows whether he went to France and was killed or pulled through? Address: Miss Gertrude Hotz, 438 Second street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

MISSING IN ACTION—Private Leonard Delbert Philo, 95th Co., Sixth Marines. Reported wounded in Soissons drive, July 19, 1918. In September 1919 mother received notice that "Philo Leonard" had died and was buried in France. She does not believe it is her boy. Comrades are reported to have seen him alive and well in the fall of 1918. Address his sister, Mrs. H. W. Johns, 107 Glenwood Ave., Battle Creek, Mich.

109TH INF., CO. M.—Lieut. Duncan Campbell, wounded Nov. 1, 1918; died Nov. 4; no news after leaving first dressing station. Information wanted by wife, Mrs. Campbell, 19 W. 9th St., New York City.

104TH OR 104TH P. A. BATT. F.—If the parents of Joe H. Johnston will communicate with I. M. Adams, 19 East Verona Ave., Pleasantville, N. J., they may receive a Testament and three snapshots belonging to Johnston, which were found on a battlefield in France.

55TH INF., CO. M.—Will the soldier who was with Sgt. John W. Smalley when he charged a machine gun nest and was killed near Vilecy, France, Sept. 12, 1918, write Florence E. Berney, 404 Walnut St., Alexandria, Ind.

126TH INF., CO. I.—Will the sergeant who was saved by Pvt. Homer Whisler on Oct. 9, 1918 at Romagne write to Whisler's mother, Mrs. Mary E. Whisler, Hill-born, O. R. F. D. 11? Information concerning her son's death wanted by Mrs. Whisler.

53TH INF., UNIT—Ruth G. Morgan, last heard of on way to France, August, 1918. Information of her fate desired by E. B. Bauman, Box 364, Ferdinandsburg, Ky.

MISSING IN ACTION—Pvt. Arthur Hill, 361st Inf., wounded in October in Argonne and seen walking off the field. A buddy saw him in a hospital in France. Since then nothing has been heard of him. Family fears he is a mind case in some hospital and has heard rumors that he is under treatment in the United States. Address cousin, W. R. Cawthra, 10 Clay St., Worcester, Mass.

109TH INF., CO. B.—Pvt. Charles James Hunt, wounded, gassed, captured and reported died of wounds. Mother would be grateful for any particulars of the engagement in which her son was wounded and taken. She also wants to know what kind of gas it was and how it affected him. Write Mrs. John L. Hunt, Route Box 29, Mount Union, Pa.

59TH INF., M. G. CO.—Pvt. Raymond M. Schmidt, reported wounded Oct. 3 or 4, 1918 and died Oct. 8 at Fourth Field Hospital, Cassey, France. Mother wants to hear from anyone who saw her boy shortly before he died and knows whether "he said anything on his deathbed." Address Mrs. Matthew Schmidt, 507 Rush St., Dubuque, Iowa.

"U. S. S. OTRANTO"—Pvt. Clyde Mott went down with this vessel when she sank in a storm off the Irish Coast. His parents want information about his death from survivors. Write his brother-in-law, John C. Doolittle, Savannah, Ga.

PETER'S PARTNER

By JACK LAWTON.

Far down on the lonely beach was the clubhouse, its door barred for the winter; farther still, quite alone, stood a little house where Peter lived. Old Peter's house was never closed during all the seasons. Each springtime found him whistling with fresh cheer as he planted flowers to his tiny garden, and during the gay months of summer, Peter's porch was usually occupied by eager youngsters from cottages on shore in search of the pretty shell beads or ornaments, which Peter loved to give them.

Now a golden October gave to sea and land one last gift of summer, and Peter sat sunning himself on the porch in his rush-bottomed chair.

A girl came presently like a scarlet bird flying across the sands. Her hair was wind-blown and her cheeks as crimson as the sweater she wore.

"Daddy Peter!" she cried, "when will you remember to wear your coat when you sit outdoors. The air is chill, even in this sunshine." She had reached his side now, seating herself on a step beneath him.

Her appearance brought to old Peter's face a dozen kindly wrinkles of humor and tenderness.

"You will get back at me with your babying, Nell," he said, "just because I happened to bring you up that way."

"You did bring me up Daddy Peter," the girl said softly, "from the time my parents perished in this same sunning sea. I'll never forget that—it was a good bringing up, too. You could not have done more for your own blood."

She raised solemn eyes to his. "I will never forget my debt to you," she said. The words were like a covenant.

"Tight," scoffed the old man. "Why child, you've paid me over and over again in kindness."

"I will always be kind," the girl added firmly. She lowered her eyes to hide sudden tears.

"Sometimes," said Peter, "I have an uncomfortable fancy that young Dave and you care for each other, but that you won't admit the caring to him for fear your going would leave me in the lurch. Nell!" he spoke earnestly.

"You wouldn't let any nonsense like that keep you from your happiness."

"You are imagining, Daddy Peter," the girl laughed. She patted his wrinkled hand and arose as a young man came swinging toward them.

"I thought," said the big young man, strangely shy, "that you might walk to town with me, Nell."

"Of course," urged Peter. "Go, girl. And Nell went."

The old man looked up surprised as a visitor came walking up.

"Good evening," greeted the stranger. "You won't remember me, but I used to come and sit in your porch while my grandchildren begged for shells. We stopped at the hotel. Today such a longing came over me to smell salt water again and to breathe in the air that I had my daughter's chauffeur drive me out. You see, sir," he added, as Peter offered his own comfortable chair, "I was brought up close to the sea; my father was a fisherman. Well—I made a bit, but no other place has ever spelled home to me. As I get older I seem to want to be near the water. That's why my daughter brought me here last summer. But it wasn't the same." The old gentleman sighed. "One can't take comfort with Jeanette and her children some way, even if Jeanette is my daughter. John—that's her husband, he means well. John's decent to me. But—" the old stranger studied the face of the old seaman, "I wonder," he mused, "if you can possibly know what it means to feel one's self in the way, to be borne with, you understand, and treated pleasantly, but in the way?"

"No," Peter answered. "I don't know what it means to feel like that. I do as I please. No one about to be bothered. Nell, my foster daughter, is teaching school and boarding. She thinks she has got to stay near me, to run in and keep me from being lonely. I'll confess that I get lonesome, evenings. Otherwise my life is pretty happy. I read the books I like, and smoke my pipe, and I'm a master hand at cooking. Winters, with the wind howling 'cross the beach, and my fire glowing inside, some apples baking, mebbe, and me in the lamplight there with the evening paper," said Peter blissfully, "that's peace."

"Yes," excitedly agreed the stranger. "It's freedom and pleasure the year round, I can see that. Then, the feel—of the sea?"

"This is what I came about today. I've been thinking the thing over since I watched you last summer. Could you take a partner in—freedom? Myself, sir. I'd be more than content with my books and you to talk to. Will you share your home, if my money keeps it going?"

Peter's knotted hands grasped the porch rail. A gleam came into his faded eyes.

"Are you sure you mean it, stranger?" he asked. "I bin sitting here today wondering how I could manage through another winter. I don't tell Nell my troubles for I want her to marry the man she loves. I was trying to say goodbye to my home; now you come and offer to keep it for me. Can I—refuse?"

"I hope not," the old gentleman answered gravely.

From the sea came a breeze rustling the crimson leaves of the porch vines. Impulsively the old men clasped hands and on their faces was the light of peace.

It Works Both Ways. Be happy and you will be good.—Albany Journal.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

"Oh, the world is full of countries, but here's one that is my own; It's the land that stood for freedom when it had to stand alone. It's the land that gave a welcome to all men who would be free. Or all the lands around the earth it is the land for me."

FOOD VALUES.

The banana pound for pound is more nutritious than the potato and it constitutes the chief carbohydrate food of millions of people in the tropics, where it takes the place of cereals such as wheat, rice and barley and tubers of all kinds, such as potatoes.

Our government experts at Washington tell us that the banana is not only one of the most nutritious fruits but is one of the most easily digested, which explains some popular theories regarding this fruit.

The banana has still another quality which should highly recommend it. The thick skin which covers it is a protection against all contamination and makes it one of the most sanitary articles of diet.

As to the digestibility of the banana, ripe ones are classed with the easily digested foods, but it is important to see that the fruit is ripe. The skin of the fruit should be dark yellow or covered with brown spots; often the best fruit is found in the skins which are dark brown.

Care should be taken to have the fruit cut from the stalk leaving the skin unbroken.

A ripe banana served with a glass of milk is a satisfying meal for one desiring a light luncheon.

Banana Pie.—Bake a tender pastry shell on an inverted pie tin and when cool fill with thinly sliced banana, sprinkled with salt and lemon juice. Sugar to taste and over all pour a generous cupful of whipped cream sweetened and flavored with almond. Serve well chilled.

Bananas With Steak.—Slice in half a few rather firm bananas; lay in a granite pan with butter, sugar, lemon juice and a sprinkling of salt. Cook in the oven until well done, then serve as a garnish for the steak.

Lamb Chops With Peas.—Broil the chops, having them trimmed uniformly. Arrange on a platter garnished with green peas served in a thick drawn butter sauce.

Old Lumber Best.

By a government test in Germany, sound lumber that is 25 years old has been proved materially stronger than new stock.

"Certainly, the clock is right!"

"Yes, I am always through washing by 9 o'clock, and I never start before seven or eight."

Sounds alluring, doesn't it? But she is just one of the 400,000 women in America who use the

Thor Electric Washing Machine

WITH ALL-METAL SAFETY SWINGING WRINGER

and the very great majority of them bought this wonderful household help by paying

and the balance in small monthly payments—just as you can do

This amounts to less—yes, less than you would pay a laundress for one day a week—and you have a better laundress than you could ever hire—a laundress that works for you now and for a lifetime—always on hand when wanted—no meals to get—no fussing. A good sized washing done in an hour—clothes washed spotlessly clean—and much less wear on them.

For 14 years THOR has been recognized as the WASHING MACHINE SUPREME. It is unqualifiedly guaranteed by the Hurley Machine Company and approved by Good Housekeeping Institute.

23RD INF. CO. I.—Pvt. Floyd Holtz died July 29, 1918 after having been wounded at Vaux July 1. Government bureaus can furnish no other information. His mother died last November while mourning for him. Details of his death are sought by sister, Mrs. Florence Tiviss, 83 Bridgeport Ave., Devon, Conn.

PROSPERITY BRINGS RESPONSIBILITIES.

One word will explain much in connection with the present abnormal condition in this country—export.

If a very large part of the world stops work for five years; if millions of men withdraw from useful occupations and spend their time in burning and pillaging and destroying property and wealth; if whole nations of skillful workers are without raw materials and machinery and nations become bankrupt; what additional tasks fall upon that portion of the world's population which is permitted to continue the ordinary pursuits and is backed by abundant resources? Little imagination is required to arrive at a conclusion.

When the European war began we were exporting manufactured goods to the value of about $700,000,000 annually. During the past year we have produced and sent out to other nations manufactured articles to the value of $2,850,000,000. Nor is this vast increase wholly to be accounted for by higher prices. The volume of goods is enormously increased. During the past year we have exported 900,000,000 yards of cotton cloth and 20,000,000 pairs of shoes, an amount in both cases nearly twice as much as the exports of 1914.

Much has been said of late concerning the menace to our agriculture from the desertion of the farms by both owners and hired workers. But recent government reports indicate that our farmers are sending abroad foodstuffs amounting in value to four times that received for their exports of 1914. Before the war the high mark for exported foodstuffs was about half a billion dollars, but during the past year other nations bought in the United States food products amounting to more than $2,000,000,000.

Such a condition cannot fail to influence powerfully economic affairs in this country. It is to be reckoned with in any discussion of our industrial relations and, indeed, of our social problems. The wealth of the world is being dumped into the lap of the nation, and opportunities such as come to a people but once in many generations challenge our skill, energy and integrity. Never before, perhaps, had the American people greater need of sane leadership, well-chosen representation in government and individual self-control. For prosperity brings its peculiar responsibilities and perils.

Prepare for "Leisure Years."

Long life is not worth while unless it is active. Merely to exist in dull and passive contemplation of the immediate environment invites the verdict, "Better dead." Men and women who hope to live long and retain their faculties should, if a Baltimore physician is to be believed, take a little thought in advance for the work of the "leisure" years.

Cables on the Ocean Bed.

The ocean cable between New York, the Azores and the Irish coast rests on the bed of the ocean. Before 1854 engineers of the United States navy discovered that the ocean bed between Newfoundland and the Irish coast was nearly level and composed of soft mud, apparently an ideal place for an ocean cable.

The Woodcock.

The woodcock provides one of the finest examples of protective coloring that nature has ever made. His bright eyes, however fitted for the night work to which he puts them, are sometimes his betrayer. The female woodcock is larger than the male and its weight varies as widely as to run between eight to twenty-seven ounces. Woodcock is a tremendous glutton, so he is fat. The woodcock can fly either as lazily as a rail or as swiftly as a swallow.

ment and dairy products fell to $395,000,000. On the other hand, imports of foodstuffs and food animals formed nearly 29 per cent. of our $5,239,000,000 worth of imports for 1920, or an absorption by this country of $1,500,000,000 worth of foodstuffs. These are all official figures issued by the Department of Commerce and apparently not credited by the Department of Agriculture.

"At present about 88 per cent. of our unmanufactured foodstuff imports are on the free list. All would be free were it not for the duties placed by the Democratic party on peanuts, rice and other products of the south. The truth is that the American farmer is facing a situation which grows worse every month. The demand abroad for his products is decreasing; foreign foods are pouring in, thanks to the free list once more endorsed by the Democratic platform; and the Administration 'cost plus' system succeeded in demoralizing labor to an extent which makes it almost impossible for the farmer to secure help at any reasonable price. He can not compete with other industries or labor. The Republicans have passed a law authorizing association of agricultural producers and other methods calculated to cut across lots to the consumer and to save the farmers from the harpies which prey on their exertions, and the Republicans believe in protecting farm products. The Democrats have passed a law which facilitates getting in debt, but doesn't help the farmer after he has borrowed the money. Harding promises co-operation and the abatement of arbitrary food control which robs the farmer of his just profits and then turns around and hooks the consumer. And we have all got to get behind Harding if we don't want to go hungry before long."

Two Extremes in Suits

FROM the very plain tailored suits of wool to the handsomely embroidered sport suit of silk is quite a "far piece," but the interval is filled with suits that gradually progress from the plain model to its smart rival. Street clothes nowadays have a considerable flavor of sports styles, although there remains, and probably always will remain, the trim, strictly tailored, business-like utility suit that holds the allegiance of American women. This they must have, others they may have, and, if circumstances allow, several in varying styles they do have. One of them will be as simple and, we hope, as well tailored as the manish suit pictured, another as definitely a sports style as the suit at the right, and others formal or sportish.

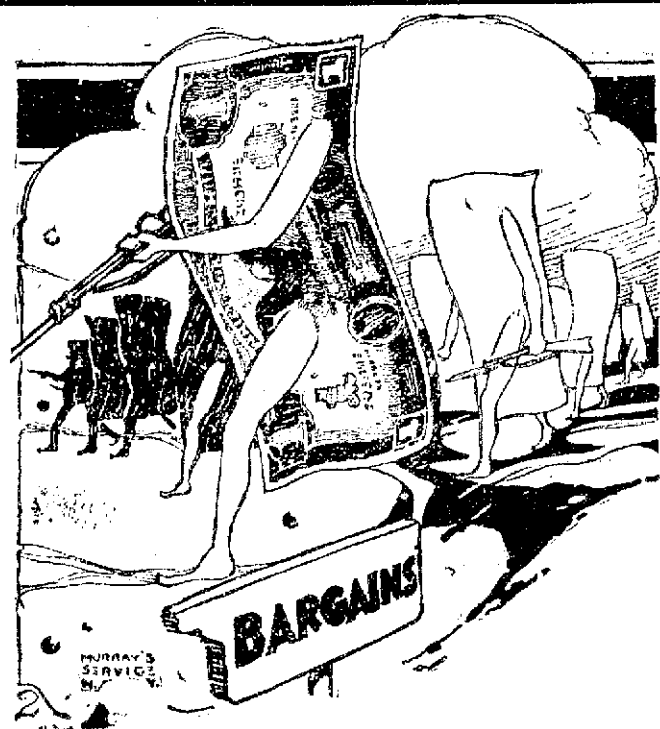

Blue serge, it almost goes without saying, is used for the first suit. Its plain skirt has a little flare and is made with box plaits down the front and back. It doesn't take long to describe this very simple affair but it is worth while adding that it is perfectly fitted and tailored.

The clever and unusual coat has slashes at each side, its skirt rounded at the bottom and it is bound with braid. A group of three tucks or cords, stitched in the material and running parallel with the edge of the coat reveals a difficult piece of work done with precision. A panel at the back is simulated by a fold or cord stitched in the material that extends downward from the shoulders and terminates in a rounded end. There are plain coat sleeves and a small collar.

A heavy fiber silk makes the sport suit and a square-necked, one-piece dress takes the place of a blouse and skirt to be worn under the coat. The bodice is extended to form a short yoke for the skirt, which is stitched on to it. In this suit it is the skirt that claims most attention for it is heavily embroidered in wool yarn. In the sweater coat a narrow shawl collar diminishes in width on its downward way to the hem, where it terminates. The very wide hem turns up on the right side providing place for deep pockets and the coat has no decoration other than four pearl buttons that finish off the long sleeves. The narrow belt is made of the goods.

PENNA. SPORTSMEN DO NOT BELIEVE IN 'SPITE' PERSECUTION

Clearfield County sportsmen will certainly not enthuse very much over the recent action in Cameron county which resulted in Secretary Seth Gordon of the State Game Commission being arrested and fined for violating the game laws by shooting at a bear after bruin is alleged to have crossed under the wire of a state game reserve.

The alleged technical violation of the law was supposed to have occurred during the hunting season of 1919 and information against the game commission official was not made until about eight months after the alleged violation. This information was made by the keeper of the game reserve who was hunting with Gordon at the time, but who apparently did not recall that the last shot was fired after the bear had crossed the road and got under the wire until after the Game Commission saw fit to discharge him from his position for what they considered good and sufficient reasons.

The information was made before a Justice of the Peace who is said to have been a member of a hunting club of which a member or members were fined recently for killing illegal deer, and the Justice is also said to have acted arbitrarily in adjudging the Secretary of the Game Commission guilty and fining him for the alleged offense, regardless of the weight of the evidence for the defense.

According to the testimony of both sides Secretary Gordon shot three shots at the bear and "never touched him." The first shot was fired as the bear was coming down the bank into the road, the second as he came out on the road and the third as he crossed the road and under the wire on the opposite side. The game keeper declared, after he lost his job and eight or nine months after the shooting that the bear was under the wire when the last shot was fired, while Secretary Gordon is just as insistent that it had not reached the wire when the last shot was fired and that he refused to fire again after the bear had reached the game sanctuary.

We have no brief for Secretary Gordon in this matter and know nothing about the facts in the case, as above recited, and which we gathered from both friend and foe to the parties interested, but the whole thing appears at this distance to be so trivial and foolish that we wonder at grown men becoming parties to such little boy's business as bringing a prosecution against any man upon such a flimsy pretense or excuse. If the game keeper in question saw Secretary Gordon or anybody else violating the law back in the fall of 1919 it was his sworn duty to have an information made against him at the time and not wait almost a year and until he was discharged or requested to resign from his position with the Game Commission before deciding that he saw a violation. It sounds too fishy and we refuse to swallow such silly rot.

"No crook e'er felt the halter draw with good opinion of the law," and this also applies to and includes the public officials whose duties require them to see that the law is obeyed and zealous officials oftentimes come in for such annoyances as appear to have been visited upon Secretary Gordon in this case. He has appealed the Justice's finding to the Cameron county courts and the matter will be further ventilated there and the Secretary claims the evidence and all the facts in the case will clearly vindicate him and absolve him from all suspicion of wrongdoing in the matter.

Clearfield county sportsmen went through a long-drawn out battle several years ago, in which personal feeling warped men's better judgment in a contest in which Game Commission officials were involved and we found that it was dirty business and profited no one. The taxpayers of the county were compelled to dig up $2500 to pay the costs of long-drawn out senseless litigation while the interests of all the sportsmen of the county suffered greatly by reason of the bitterness and animosities engendered.

The position of Secretary of the State Game Commission is an exacting one. We believe Secretary Gordon to be a competent and hard-working official, a man of absolute integrity, and instead of the annoyance of such a silly, senseless and far-fetched prosecution he and the State Game Commission should have the support of all honest sportsmen everywhere. They are doing their bit, let us all do ours.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

It is a pleasant thing to reflect upon—that every baby born into the world is a finer one than the last—"Nicholas Nickleby."

WHAT SHALL WE HAVE TO EAT

When there is a cupful or two left of baked or boiled fish, try:

Turban of Fish.—Scald one and one-half cupfuls of milk with one slice of onion, a blade of mace and a sprig of parsley; remove the seasonings. Melt one-fourth of a cupful of butter, add the same amount of flour, half a teaspoonful of salt, a few dashes of cayenne, then add the scalded milk gradually and two well-beaten yolks. Put a layer of fish on a buttered dish, sprinkle with salt and pepper and add a few drops of lemon juice. Cover with sauce, continuing with the fish and sauce, shaping in a pyramid form. Cover with buttered crumbs and brown in a hot oven.

Macaroni and Cheese in the Fireless Cooker.—Boil one cupful of macaroni fifteen minutes, adding one teaspoonful of salt to a quart of boiling water. Rinse, drain and place in a casserole. Fill the dish with milk, stir in one tablespoonful of flour cooked in two tablespoonfuls of butter long enough to blend it. Add one cupful of grated cheese and sprinkle thickly with paprika. Pack in a cooker between two moderately heated radiators, using one radiator as a cover to the casserole. Bake one and one-half hours. Do not heat the stones too hot or the dish will be baked hard and dry.

Salmon Box.—Line a bread pan slightly buttered with warm, cooked rice well seasoned, cooking it in broth of milk if possible. Skim milk will do nicely. Fill the center with cold-baked salmon flaked and seasoned with salt, pepper and a slight grating of nutmeg. Cover with rice and steam one hour. Turn out on a hot platter and surround with an egg sauce. The egg sauce is a simple drawn butter sauce to which the beaten yolks of two eggs are added with a teaspoonful of lemon juice.

Fried Egg Plant.—Pare and cut in thin slices. File the slices on a platter, sprinkling each slice with salt, cover with a plate and weight. Let stand one hour, drain, rinse each slice in cold water, dip in beaten egg, then in seasoned crumbs and fry until brown.

ANTONIO MORENO

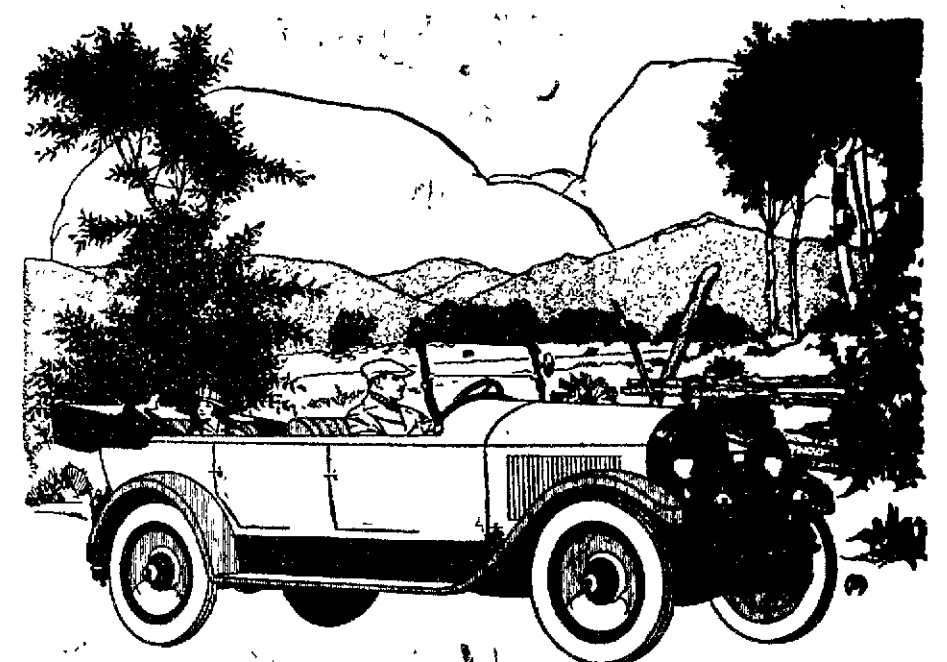

Antonio Moreno was a small boy when his father died. Eager to assist his mother by sharing part of the family burden he obtained a position as baker's clerk. For this service he received the princely sum of two dollars a week. Although he liked his position, this Spanish lad had dreams of making a fortune. He had seen wealthy American tourists in his native town and they awakened ambition in his breast. He resolved to save his money and go to the land of promise.

The Americans who visited Campamento were all supposed to be millionaires. Into the mind of Antonio Moreno came dreams, dreams of wealth that lay across the great ocean. He became determined to go to the United States and make a fortune.

When Antonio Moreno, at the age of fifteen, walked up the gangplank from the Gibraltar docks to an American steamship, he was in reality crossing the bridge from poverty to fame. Aboard the boat was one of America's most distinguished actresses, Miss Helen Ware. Her attention was attracted to the handsome lad with the fiery eyes, and she became interested in him. "What do you intend to do when you reach America?" inquired Miss Ware.

"Make a fortune," promptly replied young Antonio. Miss Ware smiled at his confidence and replied, "I think you will find both fame and fortune in the theater if you chose to become an actor."

The prophecy is now being realized. Antonio Moreno as the star of such Vitaphone serials as "The Iron Test" and "Perils of Thunder Mountain," is earning international fame and a considerable fortune. While in New York recently he signed a two year contract with the Vitaphone Company and recently finished a serial production dealing with secret service, entitled "The Invisible Hand."

True Economy Means Atlantic

A good motor using poor fuel is a costly combination. Low-grade gasoline is responsible for many engine troubles. You cannot afford to consider any but the best for your car. Do you know why Atlantic is best?

Because, the crude oils selected are the highest grades obtainable. Because Atlantic specialists have conceived the most advanced methods of refining these oils.

The result is a pure, high-quality gasoline that develops the full power of your engine. Each explosion consumes all the charge. It all burns. All-power Atlantic means extra miles to every gallon. It is economical.

Atlantic has range. It allows for altitude and weather changes. You can set your carburetor for the season and forget it. Get the most out of your car. Perfect engine performance is yours for the asking. Drive 'til you see the friendly Red Pump. Then tell the attendant to fill up the tank with

APPRECIATES AID OF LEGION

Federal Vocational Training Board
Commends Consideration and Cooperation in Connecticut.

Thomas J. Brannigan, director of the service department of the American Legion at Hartford, Conn. has received this letter from Thomas Kirby, central office eligibility officer for the United States at New Haven, Conn.

"Before leaving Connecticut I desire on behalf of the chief of Washington and the whole federal board to express sincere appreciation for the consistent consideration and hearty cooperation of the American Legion during our stay in this state.

"There is commendable satisfaction and justifiable pride as we see these men, bearing the honorable scars of national service, marching into the dawn of a new era in their lives to become more valuable to themselves and to the country and in the success that has attended our efforts the wholehearted support of our organization has been a conspicuous asset.

"While we are to be physically separated from you you may be assured the triple chain of appreciation, respect and esteem that has bound you close to us during our brief but strenuous campaign will continue in fact, and in the future the Legion has my suggestions that might aid us in our work they will receive the most respectful and serious consideration of the high authorities of the board.

My Brannigan also is the adjutant of the department of Connecticut.

A Call for Senior Villa
"And now, Johnny," said the teacher, "can you tell me what is raised in Mexico?"
"Aw, go on," replied the bright boy. "I know what you want me to say, but you told me I shouldn't talk, tough." —Amateur Legion Weekly

Protect the Song Birds.

Song birds may be protected from cats by winding four or five strands of barbed wire around the tree trunks. Cats have a great dislike for barbed wire and will not cross it. The wire will not harm the trees and can be removed when the birds leave.

The first experiment in long distance radio telephoning was made in 1914 the attempt resulting after many efforts in successful transmission of speech from Washington to Paris and San Francisco.

APPRECIATES AID OF LEGION

Federal Vocational Training Board Commends Consideration and Cooperation in Connecticut.

Thomas J. Rummage, director of the service department of the American Legion in Hartford, Conn., has received this letter from Thomas Kirby, central office eligibility officer for the federal vocational training board:

"Before leaving Connecticut I desire on behalf of the chief at Washington and the whole federal board to express sincere appreciation for the consistent consideration and hearty cooperation of the American Legion during our stay in this state."

"There is consummate satisfaction and justifiable pride as we see these men, bearing the honorable scars of national service, marching into the dawn of a new era in their lives to become more valuable to themselves and to the country, and in the success that has attended our efforts the wholehearted support of your organization has been a conspicuous asset."

"While we are to be physically separated from you, you may be assured the triple chain of appreciation respect and esteem that has bound you close to us during our brief but strenuous campaign will continue in fact, and in the future the Legion has any suggestions that might aid us in our work, they will receive the most respectful and serious consideration of the high authorities of the board."

Mr. Rummage also is the adjutant of the department of Connecticut.

A Call for Senior Villa

"And now, Johnny," said the teacher, "can you tell me what is raised in Mexico?"

"Aw, go on," replied the bright boy. "I know what you want me to say, but my father told me I shouldn't talk."

Protect the Song Birds.

Song birds may be protected from cats by winding four or five strands of barbed wire around the tree trunks. Cats have a great dislike for barbed wire and will not cross it. The wire will not harm the trees and can be removed when the birds leave.

Radio Telephoning.

The first experiment in long distance radio telephoning was made in 1914, the attempt resulting after many efforts in successful transmission of speech from Washington to Paris and San Francisco.

Reading on the Farm.

Upon most modern farms may be found interesting books, magazines and the daily paper, where in the past the ancient almanac and a few other more or less uninteresting books were at hand.

—when washed with a

Thor Electric
Washing Machine
With its All-Metal Swinging Wringer

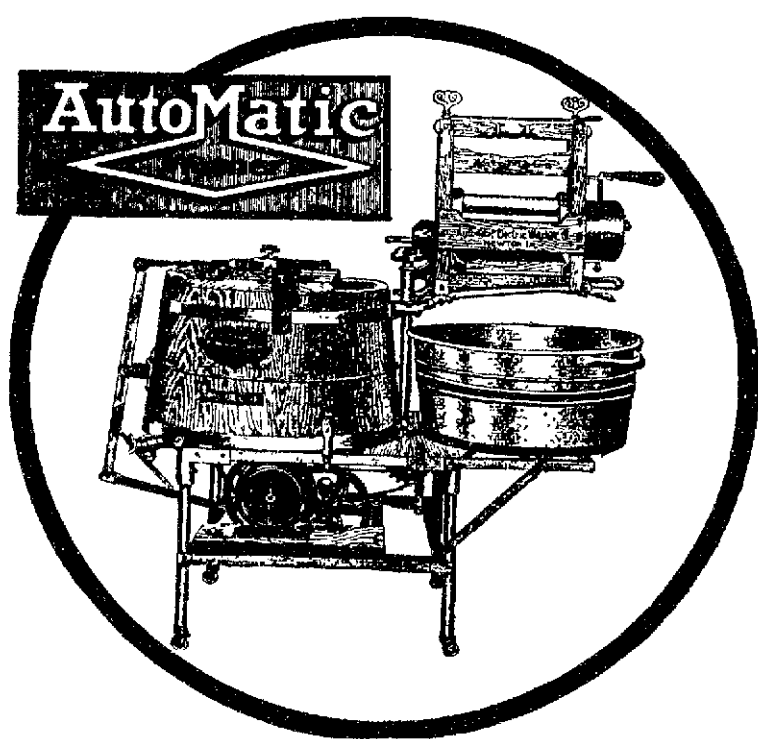

Do you remember the times when you have washed a blanket in the old-fashioned way by hand? Not a very pleasant recollection, is it?

How you wrestled with that wet, soggy mass that seemed to weigh a ton? How you rubbed it a part of the time and wished it about and tried to get it clean when you knew you were not half succeeding.

And when the grilling task was over and you took it off the line—it didn't have the pretty, soft, woolly surface you wanted to see. There was something about it that didn't look quite right—and you wondered if you had actually driven all of the dirt out of it.

What a difference when you use the THOR! No struggle with that exhausting weight—none of that tiring rubbing on the washboard. You just put the blanket into the cylinder, press the button and let the machine do the work. In a little while it is washed perfectly clean.

SECRETARY COLBY PROCLAIMS RATIFICATION

WASHINGTON, August 26.—The right of women to the ballot was formally made a part of the Constitution of the United States today when Secretary of State Colby proclaimed the ratification of the 19th amendment.

Colby announced the proclamation when he arrived at his office today after signing it shortly before at his home here. The official certification that Tennessee had become the 36th state to ratify the amendment was taken at his home today. Suffrage leaders who waited until a late hour last night for Tennessee certification went hurriedly to the State Department. They cheered when told the last steps had been taken to make the amendment operative. The Tennessee certification was taken to Colby's home by Charles L. Kooke master of ceremonies of the state department. Suffrage leaders had expected Colby to make the ceremony proclaiming the amendment a public one and were evidently disappointed. They requested him to go through the ceremony again for their benefit and for moving picture men.

NEWS FROM THE WAR ZONE

By WEBB MILLER

LONDON, August 26.—With the Anglo-Italian ultimatum to the Russians scheduled to expire tomorrow evening unconfirmed reports circulated here today declared that the Bolsheviks planned to attack the British possessions in the east. The Pall Mall Gazette said it had learned from authoritative sources that Moscow had asked Lee Kameness Bolshevik trade commissioner to leave London even before the expiration of the time limit set in Balfour note. Kameness was credited with saying that his departure would be equal to a declaration of war against Great Britain.

PARIS, August 26.—Polish forces have entered Grodno according to dispatches to the Matin today.

BERLIN, August 26.—The Polish army while still driving the Russians before them are facing a serious shortage in ammunition according to semi-official advices received here today. This situation, it was believed, would offer the Reds an opportunity to reform their shattered units and make a determined stand along the Russo-Polish front. At the same time it was learned that the Bolsheviks will prepare a new offensive along the River Nieman which flows northwest through Grodno. Twenty-seven thousand Russians north of Warsaw have crossed the border line into east Prussia.

PARIS, 1:40 p. m.—The Bolsheviks have evacuated Vilna and the Lithuanian troops have occupied the railway station there according to Warsaw dispatches received by the French foreign office today.

SISTER OF CORK MAYOR APPEALS TO LLOYD-GEORGE TO SAVE LIFE

LONDON, August 26.—May MacSwiney, sister of Lord Mayor MacSwiney of Cork, sent a message to Premier Lloyd George today telling him that he would be held responsible if her brother dies.

The British foreign office was informed by Howard Redmond, nephew of the late John Redmond, who appealed to King George in MacSwiney's behalf that it could not change its attitude. Shortly after noon MacSwiney, near death in Brixton prison from a hunger strike, was said to be "barely breathing." He has been unable to sleep for many hours.

WOODBURY NEW ASSISTANT NAVY SECRETARY

WASHINGTON, August 26.—The appointment of Gordon Woodbury, of New Hampshire, as assistant secretary of the Navy to succeed Franklin D. Roosevelt was announced today at the Navy department. The appointment was made by President Wilson.

A. K. Welch and daughter, Miss Virginia, who have been visiting their parents and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. D. Welch of Butler street, have returned to their home in Woodbury, Pa.

Mrs. Leah Smith of Buffalo, who has been visiting among old friends here for the past ten days, left Wednesday evening for Williamsport where she will spend a few days before returning to her home. Mrs. Smith was a life-long resident of Clearfield until a few years ago when she went to make her home with her daughter Mrs. Harry Johnson in Buffalo.

Miss Edna E. Welch, who has been visiting with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. D. Welch on Bridge street returned to her home Wednesday in Butler, Pa.

SECOND SESSION OF S. S. CONVENTION PROCEEDINGS

An early morning prayer meeting at 6:30. Rev. M. M. Snyder was the leader and there were 50 in attendance.

The session opened at nine o'clock with devotional exercises in charge of Rev. P. A. Lawson pastor of the Wallacetown Methodist church.

Mr. Myers occupied the first period and delivered a great address. His subject was "Hitting on Four Cylinders." Feeling that ends in feeling is the death of feeling. We need more perspiration than we are putting into Sunday school work. A good many Sunday school people only hit on three cylinders.

The four cylinders are the four splendid outreaches we have in our Sunday school work. The Sunday School Association reaches more people than any other organization in the world. It reaches all ages and classes of people. It is the waiting pot for the children of the world. It has a vital message.

The Sunday school has a two fold purpose to win and to teach. It has a practical message. It ministers to today's needs. The power of God is in the power that runs the Sunday school. The machinery of the Sunday school is no good unless it is functional.

Dr. Brubaker delivered his address on "The Country Sunday School." It was very practical and greatly enjoyed by all in attendance. Over fifty per cent of the people in the United States live in the country. The country is the source of food and clothing. It provides a large part of the men and women for the different professions in life.

There are some communities where the people are constantly moving and some where there are few children. There are some communities where the people are intelligent and some where they are ignorant. We have to study the community in which we live.

There are some difficulties in country church work, the migration of people and the overlapping of churches. There is a limit to devotional rationalism. It is not a question of competition but a question of co-operation.

The country Sunday school presents an opportunity to study the ways of God in nature. It has the opportunity to study problems of rural welfare. It has to get after all the people. The secret of country church problems is community life, selfishness.

It is the mission of the country church not only to make the church surrounding more attractive but to make the homes more attractive. A great many farmers make the mistake of building a fence around the boys and girls and not allowing them any enjoyment at all. We must not expect our boys and girls to sprout wings in the world. They are social creatures. They like play. We ought to trust our boys and girls. We will never do away with the dance and the gambling den unless we give our boys and girls some play life. We can't win young people by saying "Don't!"

The supreme end of all our work is to win the community for Jesus Christ.

Mrs. L. A. Banta, superintendent of the Home Department presented her report. She reported 29 Home Departments in the county.

Mrs. S. C. Watts, corresponding secretary, made her report. She reported 223 Sunday schools in the county. She reported one new school and five schools revived.

The following officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year: President, S. C. Watts, Curwensville.

Vice Pres., E. D. Hoyt, Sabula. Recording Secretary, Rev. J. P. McAnany, Clearfield.

LYNCHING REPORTED IN N. C.

BURLINGHAMTON, N. C., Aug. 26.—Jack Jeffries, aged 18, a negro, was lynched near Graham late yesterday afternoon for assaulting Mary Lee Ridd, 6 year old white girl, according to word received here today.

I. Fulton, Clearfield, Supt. Adult Division, Hon. Jos. E. Phillips, Clearfield.

Supt. Temperance Dept., Mrs. G. B. Benn, Coalport.

Supt. Home Department, Mrs. L. A. Banta, Clearfield.

Supt. Missionary Dept., Rev. W. R. Jones, Lumber City, Pa.

Supt. Teacher Training, W. P. Frostie, Clearfield.

An invitation was presented for the convention to go to DuBois next year and it was accepted. Consequently the convention will meet in DuBois next year.

The County Association as an expression of the appreciation of the splendid work of President S. C. Watts and his wife our corresponding secretary, voted to pay their expenses to the state convention which meets in Harrisburg in October.

Wednesday Afternoon

The session opened with devotional exercises conducted by President Watts.

Mrs. John M. Urey superintendent of the Children's Division presented her report.

Roy K. Fulton superintendent of the Young People's Division made his report. He told of the Older Boys' and Girls' conference held in Clearfield in February. He reported 188 delegates in attendance. He told of the Father and Son and Mother and Daughter banquets which were held throughout the county.

Dr. Brubaker occupied the next period. He spoke on "Sunday School Administration." In Sunday School work we are dealing with living souls instead of dead material. It is therefore very necessary that we should know what kind of product we want to turn out. We emphasize trained teachers but we fail to emphasize the function of the various officers and their efficiency. No man is fit to be on the official board unless he is interested in childhood and youth. Every local church should have a committee on religious education. A wise superintendent of the Sunday school will use his associates.

Sunday School superintendents should be Christians. A wise Sunday school leader will have standards and will work up to them. The Sunday School board should meet once a month. In the administration work we deal with programs. Some Sunday Schools don't have programs. Every program that we build must be built about the pupils. The Sunday school and the church must work together.

Hon. J. E. Phillips represented the Adult Bible Class movement. He reported 154 organized Bible classes in the county.

Rev. G. W. Hatch, superintendent of the Temperance department made his report.

The Enrollment committee reported 182 delegates in attendance the largest in the history of the county.

E. A. Zenzinger of Tyrone, vice president of the State Association was introduced and made an admirable address on "The Boy's A-set of Liability." Take a census of the pos-

BROOKVILLE WINS BY ONLY ONE SCORE

The Clearfield team, with their usual generosity, presented Brookville with another game yesterday afternoon and now Brookville stands the undisputed victor over Clearfield regardless of the fact that Clearfield fans always discounted the playing abilities of the Jefferson county magnates. While Martin and Kilroy made a quintet of errors, the stick work of the locals was good and some of the playing brilliant. Teamwork, however, was lacking and many plays and omissions were made which cost the locals the game.

Following is the box score:

FORESTRY DEPT. BUSY CUTTING MANY FIRE LINES

HARRISBURG, PA., August 25.—To afford increased protection against forest fires, the Karlsruhe State Forest in Clearfield county, is being gradually covered by a network of trails and fire lanes. These will eventually extend into all sections of the forest, providing access to fires and making it available to persons who frequent the forest for sport and recreation.

In his weekly report to the Pennsylvania Department of Forestry, Forester W. H. Horning, of Keewauylin, said Forest Rangers W. J. Buck and M. A. Barr are mowing and brushing out the roads and trails in preparation for the fall fire season. They have now completed the removal of material from about fifty miles of trails and fire lanes.

Forester William F. Dague, of Clearfield, has reported that his assistants are weeding and cleaning the nursery. The young forest trees growing from seeds planted this spring have made a satisfactory growth. Good crops of seed are expected from the hemlock trees in his region this fall by Forester Dague. He plans to gather cones to procure seed for his fall and spring sowing. He will make special effort to collect large quantities of white pine cones if they can be found in satisfactory quantities.

Misses Althea and Freda Carr left today to spend a week with A. E. Carr and family of Johnstown.

Misses Grace Lea, Pearl White and Eugene Waite are spending a few days at Butler.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Turner left today to visit Mr. Turner's sister at Johnstown. Also her sister and brother of Pittsburgh.

Charles A. Cowdick and Mrs. Rudah M. Turner both of Clearfield were united in marriage yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock by Rev. C. C. Snively at the West Side M. E. Church. They were attended by C. L. Leigey and Mrs. Emma Haney.

CLEARFIELD SHOPS ALL READY FOR ANNUAL DOLLAR DAY BARGAIN FEAST

The stage is set, the orchestra is playing the opening overture, the crowds are beginning to assemble and we're off!

When Old Sol sticks his head up over Brewery Hill tomorrow morning, he will look upon a shopping district ready or the annual rush of Dollar Day. He will see crowds of eager shoppers congregating around the stores of the shopping district, awaiting the opening of doors that will show them that Clearfield merchants can give as great offerings as can be given by merchants anywhere.

In none of the four previous Dollar Day events have the merchants entered into the spirit of the occasion as they have this year. Merchandise is offered at prices that will be eye openers and in talks with various merchants The Progress man has found that many price sacrifices have been made.

The weatherman promises a fine day with moderate temperature. The merchants promise a feast of bargains. Promise yourself that after a perusal of the various advertisements you'll be on hand with your bargain instinct working overtime.

Do not think today's paper is the same as yesterday. There are many new ads and several merchants have enlarged the scope of their offerings. Look it over thoroughly.

STATE HELPING ITS DISABLED MEN TO EARN A LIVING

HARRISBURG, PA., Aug. 26.—The Pennsylvania Department of Labor and Industry, through its Bureau of Rehabilitation has offered free service to four persons in Clearfield county, who have been permanently disabled in industrial accidents. The figures were announced in a report to Commissioner Clifford B. Connelly by S. S. Riddle, the bureau chief.

Similar assistance has been offered without cost to 798 industrial cripples throughout the State, and 396 of them have registered with the bureau. Twenty of the disabled persons have been placed in schools for various training courses, and the remainder have been helped to positions in industrial establishments for training or in employment for which they are fit.

Artificial legs, arms and hands have been supplied by the bureau to 61 cripples. Nineteen persons were paid weekly maintenance costs not exceeding $15.00 per week during their training periods.

One young machinist, who lost a hand in an accident, is taking a course in mechanical engineering at the expense of the bureau. A laborer, who earned $4.00 a day, lost an arm in a cement block factory. The bureau found employment for him in a plant, operating a glass blowing machine, where he is now earning from $23.00 to $40.00 a week. His income is greater with one good arm than it was with two arms.

A number of cases handled by the bureau are young persons, who have been returned to public schools; others are in business colleges, some are learning wheels, telegraphy, while still others are in trade and technical institutions.

Walter Gardner of Madera and Miss Mary Miller of Osceola were united in marriage yesterday by Rev. C. C. Snively at the West Side M. E. church at 3:30.

ALIMENA AND MOTT WRESTLE TO DRAW

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Aug. 26.—Peter Alimena, of Adrian and Ralph Mott, of Mahaffey, premier lightweight wrestler went to a draw in a grueling match at the fair last evening with fully 1,000 per on watching the bout.

Alimena won the first fall in 5 minutes and 26 seconds with a half roll on and arm lock.

After an hour's wrestling for the second fall in which Mott showed the greater aggressiveness the match was declared a draw by the referee.

Ired Barth, of Pittsburgh former middleweight wrestling champion of the world, officiated as referee. The smallness of the wrestling mat and the heavy dust of the track in front of the grandstand detracted somewhat from the match, which was however one of the nearest fought ever witnessed by local fans.

COX IS ENROUTE TO PITTSBURG WITH RENEWED PROMISES

By HERBERT WALKER

Aboard Governor James M. Cox's special train en route to Pittsburgh, August 26.—With an air of confidence Governor James M. Cox today was speeding across Indiana and Ohio to Pittsburgh where he will prove his charge of a fifteen million dollar fund to finance the campaign of Senator Harding for President. He promises to make good his allegations at Pittsburgh. From a reliable source it was learned that Cox will reveal that the Republican financial goal was for a few millions more than fifteen.

Governor Cox said: "I am going to produce evidence to prove my charge that the Republicans are seeking a campaign fund of at least fifteen millions. I shall convince the American people that a plot has been formed, and I can hazard a guess that on Friday morning many men who believed it was a Republican 'cinch' will have changed their minds."

CHICAGO CUBS TO PLAY FOR HARDING

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
MARION, Ohio, August 26.—Big League baseball will be brought to Marion soon to add a little variety to the front porch campaign of Senator Harding. The Chicago Cubs will play the semi-professional local team here on September 2. Senator Harding will pitch the first ball. Senator Harding is a base ball crank and is anxious to see a real ball game.

Who can remember when a quart would buy only one vote?

A self-made man hardly ever feels like boasting over the job.

There will probably be some demand for political carpenters to nail campaign lies.

Even a barber might be able to tell a man a few things that would be good for him.

There are no moss-backs any more—nobody stays in one place long enough to gather moss.

It is evident that the man who says women will vote as their husbands do is not a married man.

IS YOUR JOB IMPORTANT TO YOU?

"How much you want to get?"

"Don't know."

"Huh! You are a bright one."

Usually that is the way a small person in a small job looks at the question of salary. It is the biggest thing in the world to him. But here is what one big man in a big job thinks of the pay envelope end of his job and it is just because he had always had this point of view that Harry B. Thayer is now president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company, as reported by Forbes magazine.

"Don't think of yourself at all. Don't waste an hour of your time scheming or planning to get promotion. Don't worry about how big an increase in your salary you can contrive to get—don't let your mind dwell on money at all if you can help it. Throw yourself, body, soul and spirit, into whatever you are doing. Become so interested and so engrossed in your tasks that you have neither time nor inclination to think about yourself or your prospects or the possibility of a 'raise.'"

"Don't imagine for one moment that your superiors don't know what you are doing or how valuable an employee you are. Some fellows have the impression that if they are in a very large organization their work is buried and that none of the bosses has a chance to know just what they are accomplishing. The truth is that in every organization, no matter how large or how small, some one is taking notice of any employee who shows special ability."

PESSIMISM OUT OF PLACE

The Pessimist we always have with us. On every hand, in every age, are men who delight to drag a soapbox out into the streets of the world and cry out to all who will listen that mankind is on the highway to perdition. Sooner or later they are run down by traffic in which gruesome fate they find complete vindication for their theories.

Beyond dispute the world is as gravely troubled today as ever in its long and laborious history. But what is important to note is that it has been troubled gravely before. And it has always come out scarred but sound. Ever since shortly after the dawn of history there have been anarchists and reactionaries and profiteers and greedy fellows of every type in every walk of life. They are forgotten now, as the trouble makers of today will be forgotten in another century. Man remembers long only those who serve him well.

There is no need for men to shake their heads, despairingly, in fear that civilization and organized government are bound for destruction. Nations have been overthrown before now and empires have expired but mankind kept on, developing, through the centuries, his knowledge and faith and power. We shall come through this storm somehow, and be the better for the experience.

But there is no progress through wishing. Man grows only by working. It is not enough to have faith that we shall come out of the valley of our discontent. We must have the faith that inspires work and the seed of precept that enthuses example. If we would live again in the piping times of peace and plenty we must labor for them.

The Part the Laundry Plays in Back-to-School Days

Back-to-school days are here — more work and less help for mother.

Clothes to be gotten into shape—youngsters to be dressed and fussed over—little folks too busy and excited to be much use around the house.

But fortunately for mother she has no longer to worry about the clean clothes problem—each week she is sending her family bundle to us.

She's always sure of a liberal supply of clean things without any of the old-time slaving over a wash-tub, or waiting on and watching over careless laundresses.

The spick-and-spanness so noticeable in school children today is a laundry product.

Why not give the kiddies and yourself the benefit of it?

A minute at the phone will bring our driver. Have us take over your washday worries and your family bundle.

If Backachy Or Kidneys Bother

Eat less meat and take a glass of Salts to flush out Kidneys.
Drink plenty water.

Uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish, ache, and feel like lumps of lead. The urine becomes cloudy; the bladder is irritated, and you may be obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night. When the kidneys clog you must help them flush off the body's urinous waste or you'll be a real sick person shortly. At first you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, you suffer from backache, sick headache, dizziness, stomach gets sour, tongue coated and you feel rheumatic twinges when the weather is bad.

Eat less meat, drink lots of water; also get from any pharmacist four ounces of Jad Salts, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active. Druggists here say they sell lots of Jad Salts to folks, who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Religious Belief About Dove.
The people of northern Europe used to say that the ring dove (a partly domesticated bird well known to them) perched near the cross when Jesus was dying, and waited out its sorrow, to alleviate the sufferings of him who was crucified. A dove with six wings is one of the types of the Church of Christ.

sibilities of the boys and girls in your church and Sunday school. If the church of the future depends upon the boys and girls of today, how about the nation. We are making it very hard for our boys and girls to get training in leadership because we do the work that they ought to be allowed to do.

Mr. Myers occupied the last period. The convention closed with the singing of the Doxology and the Benediction by Dr. Collins.

Wednesday Evening
There was a large audience present at the closing session. The song service was conducted by Dr. Collins. Dr. Brubaker and Mr. Myers delivered great addresses full of inspiration and instruction. This brought to a close one of the most successful conventions in the history of the country.

ALASKA A LAND RICH IN SOIL AND FULL OF OPPORTUNITY

A good many people think of Alaska as just one huge ice berg, a region of perpetual ice and snow, broken only by brief and uncomfortable summers.

As a matter of fact the summers are delightful, the climate is bracing and if the winters are cold there, they are also cold in Minnesota and northern New York.

Alaska is a young man's country.

It offers above any other field opportunities for the red-blooded, the kind of pioneers who settled America, conquered the west and built up the civilization of Australia.

Youth with adventurous spirit who are chafing under the more settled conditions of the East must be attracted by the lure of this great land, now under the flag of the United States.

There is little doubt that in time Alaska will be as thickly populated as Norway and Sweden, for its agricultural and mineral resources far exceed those of the two northern European lands.

First of all, the call of gold. Alaskan fields have already produced fortunes, and the supply has yet hardly been touched.

They raise strawberries in Alaska, and wheat grows six feet high. The fishing industry offers annexation the scope. With proper capital and enterprise this country might lead the world in fish foods. Of course, there are obstacles. It is no country for weaklings. But to the strong and unafraid no spot on earth offers opportunity with a larger capital.

Not without their charm are the game resources. The streams teem with fish. Virgin forests, where, as the Irishman says, "the hand of man has never set foot" are alive with game. Bear, moose, wild sheep and goats, fox and other fur-bearing animals abound.

Besides the abundance of birds, such as duck, geese and the like, make it a sportsman's paradise.

When the railroads, now under construction by the government, are completed and adequate water transportation is made possible by the Merchant Marine bill of 1916, the rush to Alaska will begin in earnest.

There is oil there, too. Many Alaskans believe that their territory's wealth in oil will surpass the wealth that comes from its gold.

Dr. Brooks of the Interior Department, probably knows more than any other man in the United States about Alaska, he is an expert geologist and is now investigating the oil resources of that country. Governor Ridge declares in his official capacity after making numerous investigations that he believes Alaska's future oil production will be enormous.

The new Water Power bill will see cut for Alaska the development of millions of water power, thus saving fuel coal and oil for manufacturing use. Locally, billions of horsepower are now running idly to the sea on the unhampered streams of this territory.

Of low grade coal there is an abundance. Anthracite has also been found in two fields, but has not as yet been developed.

The government railroad now building leaves Seward at the head of Resurrection Bay and extends four hundred and ninety miles north to Fairbanks, not far from the Yukon and the Arctic Circle. It cuts the mainland nearly in half. Four hundred and thirty-six miles of this road have been built and are in operation, and one hundred and nine remain to be constructed.

Alaska needs more people. It needs people not only to hunt the game and mine the gold, but also the homemaker who will till the soil and build up a permanent civilization.

It needs especially more women. Most of the farmers there are bachelors.

Alaska is the ideal summer resort for tourists. In the United States proper we travel a thousand miles to see a majestic mountain covered with snow or to look at a glacier. In Alaska you travel day after day in a great of resplendent snow white peaks and the most granitic objects of nature.

Alaska needs development. At present it is only cold miners that are lured by the prospect of rapid wealth. Many of the pioneers remained. The dominant thought of Alaska however, today is that what made Alaska a Mecca for gold digging a few years ago was but the surface of outcroppings of enormous hidden mineral wealth yet to be uncovered.

Too many things are still forbidden in Alaska. There are too many government restrictions and prohibitions. Secretary Payne says he believes that if the law permitted young men to select homesteads and at the same time did not require them to work and live on these homesteads, this would give them an opportunity to work in other lines while clearing off their land for a permanent abiding place. Such changes in the law would do much toward giving Alaska the needed population.

A recent exchange says that it has been many a day now, since anybody has believed that Alaska was well named by those who called it "Seward's Folly" or that in giving Russia $75,000,000 and a title more for it the famous Secretary paid a price absurdly high.

SHE CAN ANSWER QUESTIONS

of a statistical nature their questions are answered by Miss Pearl Burnett of Indianapolis.

Miss Burnett has charge of the records in the statistical section of the organization division at American Legion national headquarters and what she doesn't know about the Legion and its multitudinous integral units probably isn't worth knowing anyhow.

Affiliation Seems Certain

A close affiliation between the American Legion, the C. A. R. and the Great War Veterans Association of Canada is the aim expressed in a resolution that the executive council of the Canadian organization recently adopted at Winnipeg. It was recommended that negotiations be opened with the American bodies. The resolution is to be presented to the Great War Veterans association for approval and it is believed that its adoption is certain.

Patriotism Is Normal

No one may impugn the Americanism of the Legion, its long and honorable record without getting into a quarrel with the Post No. 27. At a recent meeting adopted a resolution denying in unmistakable terms that the patriotism of that society was other than normal. The action followed a recent statement by a legislator accusing the Legion of harboring 'alien slackers.'

Rouge Withers Greek Girls

Although most Greek girls are naturally very pretty, they begin to paint and powder their faces only when the cheeks brighten and the eyebrows and lashes deepest black, and very palely blue. The result is that they are withered old women at forty, and thus a where are ugly females to be found than beneath the blue skies of this class land.

Coats Carefully Designed

When a coat is designed to be a good one, it is not only a matter of style, but also of practicality. It must be designed to protect the body from the elements, and to be comfortable to wear.

In addition to these virtues, a coat must also be designed to be a pleasure to wear. It must be a reflection of the wearer's personality, and must be a source of pride.

Coats are designed to be a reflection of the wearer's personality, and must be a source of pride. They are designed to be a reflection of the wearer's personality, and must be a source of pride.

This coat is the left of the group is made of any one of the soft plain fabrics, and could not be much simpler. It is cut on a simple line. The collar and cuffs are covered with silk embroidery in self color. Lingerie is used across the back and at each side of the front, showing a heavy silk cord to hold the skirt as a guide that is at the front. A similar cord with unfinished by ornaments is used to finish the square, full pockets at each side.

"HOBO" REPORTER, ONLY ONE OF HIS KIND, A PENNSYLVANIAN

FRANK H. BROOKS, Howard R. Haddock, was the only hobo reporter I ever knew. He played the role of his own volition. He was born to the cloth. His father was a member of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania. The son had all the advantages of a noble birth.

In his youth, after he had hit the gravel in his attempt to make a fortune, he never lost his activity. He was a courtier in a society of hobo reporters. He was in Bessie's one day, "waiter" when the dispenser said, "Het, here comes —old friend of yours" as "Het" visualized the incomer he looked his head.

Nothing in it," he said. "He's a hobo, and for only one beer I'll wait for Judge Cadby or some of the Four Courts gang. They're good for at least three beers, each." "Het" had the Four Courts assignment when he was on "Mack's" staff of the Globe-Democrat. Whenever he stopped he was in "Hobos." They were gauged by the number of drinks they called for. "Het" never "touched" a temperance drink he ever "stand off" one of the boys of the staff on which he reported.

He had money and was noted for his liberality when that trait was properly called. Het named this member as an Ancient Mariner and even hailed the albatross. He complimented the German on the speech the latter had delivered the day before and told him that a judge on him a "great send off" to German paper in St. Louis.

Thereupon he held up the paper from his pocket and read with effect a speech

PREPARING SILO FOR FUTURE USE

Every Farmer Should See That
Structure Is in Proper Condition for Corn Crop.

BEST COATING FOR INTERIOR

Go Over Huge Receptacle Carefully
and Seal Cracks With Tar and
Oakum—in Filling Prevent Air
Pockets by Packing.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture)

Corn raising time—that period when a portion of the corn crop is prepared and stored in the silo—will soon be here. Every silo owner should see that the structure is in best condition to receive the succulent corn crop.

As the farmer gives the silo the thorough "once over" he must look out, first of all, for proper protection for the interior. The annual application of a mixture of coal tar and creosote both inside and outside, adds greatly to the life of a wood silo, as it protects the wood against decay. The coal tar creosote solution is relatively inexpensive and the cost of treating the silo with this material is so slight that no silo owner should allow his silo to stand without this protection. It is also essential that he tighten loose hoops in order that no cracks or crevices allow air seepage. If the hoops have been kept tight however during the period that the silo is empty, they should be loosened just before filling to prevent buckling or breaking of hoops due to swelling when the dry stalks absorb moisture from the green silage.

Look for Cracks in Old Silos.

In the case of wooden silos it may be advisable to cement around the bottom of the silo where the foundation joins the superstructure. In the case of old silos it will be profitable for the farmer to go over them carefully to look for cracks, and where he finds them to seal with tar and oakum, wood filler or other effective material. If the bottom of the silo has decayed slightly, the owner may saw off what ever amount is necessary and then by the use of blocking gradually lower the silo to the foundation again cementing around the base as previously described.

When the silo is upright and able to stand the next step inspection, the owner may consider the actual work of filling. A wise precaution is to place several feet of straw in the bottom of the silo to act as a guide and to prevent the silage from being trampled.

Must Tramp It Down Well

In the actual operation of filling the silo it is of paramount importance that no air pockets be left. This is prevented by sufficient tramping. It depends largely on the diameter of the silo how many men should be used to tramp the ensilage but even in silos as small as 12 feet in diameter at least three men should be used with much tramping in the lower part of the silo.

The proper sealing of the silo also is important because when the silo is correctly topped or there usually is a minimum loss of the succulent feed.

A good plan is to top the ensilage from the last three or four loads of corn which are run into the silo. Straw or coarse hay may also be used as a topping. This ensilage should be seen over the top of the contents after it has been thoroughly matted if necessary, although as a rule the corn it cut at the proper stage is moist enough without extra watering.

DOING WORTH WHILE WORK

Worth of time is not necessarily the reward of the one who does something. Success is not always measured by such standards. One may be a hero and yet be unknown to the world, and the world may be unaware that the hero has been doing his duty.

The people of the Southern Appalachian, of pure English or Scotch-Irish stock, in some sections are scarcely farther advanced than were the Elizabethan men. Buried in the mountains, they have stood still for generations. To help a few such a score of years ago the Kentucky State Federation of Women's Clubs sent out half dozen cultured young women into one of the most benighted and feudal regions of the state to look over the ground and see what could be done in early twentieth century enlightenment to that region.

They penetrated 40 miles from a railroad. They found the ignorance they expected, but they also found a desire for instruction. Two of the young women, seeing the need, decided to spend their lives there serving these people in the way in which they most needed.

From that beginning schools have been established that have served to evolve once live counties in the heart of the mountain. For a few hours a day a boy can obtain in academic education and receive in tuition in some line of industry that tend to make him an efficient workman. Girls are taught sewing and cooking in addition to their mental studies. Nor is training in the social sciences neglected for either sex. Hundreds have had their mental horizons widened to a state of intelligence where there was darkness before.

Head Grows Till Man Is 40.

Spending generally a man's head, particularly if he is a thinking man, continues to increase in size until he is forty or fifty years of age.

Columbus and Friday.

It is said that on Friday Columbus set out from Spain to seek a new world. On Friday he first caught sight of land. On Friday he landed on his return voyage. On Friday he sailed back in Spain. On Friday he first sighted the American mainland on his next voyage. On Friday he first set foot upon it and again on Friday he landed in his native land.

Horsepower.

The nominal horsepower of an engine is determined by an approximate formula of which that of the National automobile chamber of commerce is the most common. According to this the horsepower is equal to the square of the diameter of the cylinder times the number of cylinders divided by 40 and one-half.

WHAT TO HAVE FOR LUNCHEON.

For a warm weather luncheon, and this means one easy to digest and not too heavy, try a fish dish for the main course, a salad and a light dessert with an iced or a hot drink as one prefers.

—Chop a small onion very fine and fry brown in one tablespoonful of butter. Mix one teaspoonful of curry powder with one tablespoonful of flour and a pinch of salt. Stir into the butter. Add slowly one cupful of hot water, stirring briskly. When the sauce is thick add one cupful of flaked salmon and cook until well heated.

Curran Pie—Bake a pastry shell and fill with the following: Mash one cupful of currants with one cupful of sugar or use the same quantity of fresh currant jam, prepared by using crushed currants and sugar in equal measures, or slightly less sugar. Add two beaten egg yolks, two tablespoonfuls of flour, a quarter of a cupful of water, mix well and cook until smooth and thick. Cool, fill the shell and cover with a meringue made from the beaten whites with two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Brown in the oven and serve at once.

Peas and Carrots—Clean and dice enough carrots to make two and one-half cupfuls. Soak until tender; put through a sieve, add butter and flour, one tablespoonful each; one beaten egg one-half teaspoonful of salt and a few dashes of pepper and a grating of nutmeg. Press into a ring mold, cover with greased paper and steam twenty minutes. Fill the center with cooked seasoned peas and garnish with parsley.

Tomato Hors d'Oeuvres—Arrange slices of tomato cut one-half inch thick on thin rounds of browned cornmeal mush. Cover the tomato with a paste made of cottage cheese mixed with a few chopped nut meats and add a seasoning of chopped chives and relishes. Garnish with radish roses or with olives. Serve at dinner.

Fruit Sherbet—Take one can of blue apple or one pint of fresh fruit, one pint of sugar, one pint of water and one tablespoonful of gelatin. Mix and freeze.

which "Het" had made up in advance. It so happened, and "Het" knew that the member had made a few remarks the day previous on a local measure. The member was most effusive in his appreciation. As "Het" folded the paper and hid it in his pocket he said with a much earned tress, as a lawyer in asking for a retainer, "That will cost you twenty-five one dollar bill."

He got them, and beat his way on the new train for Kansas City. His route was from coast to coast. Sometimes on the cross pieces of a freight car, sometime in a cattle car, but never in a passenger car. He would have declined a berth in a Pullman. At one time he "beat it" from St. Paul to San Francisco when he had enough in his wallet to make the trip in a sleeper.

When he was at his best he was city editor of the St. Joseph (Mo.) Herald when C. B. Wilkinson was the owner and editor. Then he was an athlete in figure, and a welcome guest in the homes of the beauty and fashion for which "old St. Joe" was then famous. One of his friends in St. Joseph was Joe Toole, a young attorney who always wore a "wall-to-wall" coat in his office and in court. Toole went West, and afterwards became governor of Colorado.

Refused a Governor's Invitation. On one of his trans-continental trips, "Het" called on Governor Toole at the mansion. He presented the same appearance as in Chicago when he called to see Mr. Stone. The governor had a state function on that night, and told "Het" he would pay for a shave, a haircut and a society suit if "Het" would attend the dinner.

"Het" never hesitated for a sentence. "If you feel that way about it, Joe," he said, "why not buy the beer and give a handout for whatever you like. Society clothes would spoil the game; as for the dinner, society food never agreed with me."

That was the last story I ever heard about Howard Hetfield, except that about his death—when he asked to be buried just as he was, and that no headstone bearing his name should mark his grave.

I doubt this last. It is pleasant to think that his body was sent back to his old home in Pennsylvania and was buried beside his people who had always, as I was told, sent word to him to "come home" when he "got tired of the game."

TEN POSTS ADOPT ORPHANS

A. E. F. Men, Home Again, Show They Have Not Forgotten Fatherless French Children.

When the A. E. F. packed all its troubles in its old kit bag and sailed for home loaded down with German helmets, it left behind in France 3,000 little war orphans which it had adopted during the war and for whose maintenance and education it had been paying. There was hardly an outfit in France which at one time was not in communication with its tiny mascot, a communication of a delightfully friendly nature that shellfire, mud and cooties could not interrupt.

Now the A. E. F. is back home again and hundreds of thousands have enlisted in the ranks of the American Legion. Consequently, with the memories of the letters of petite Jean and petite Jeanette fresh in their minds, the one-time godfathers of the expeditionary forces are again adopting the war orphans of France.

So far ten posts have adopted orphans, and a heavy enrollment on the list of godfathers is expected. It costs only $75 to maintain an orphan for a year, the funds being forwarded to national headquarters in Indianapolis, where they are turned over to the American Red Cross, which is assigning the children and attending to all the details of the work on the other side.

Looking Ahead.

Little Mary, aged ten, gazed admiringly at the diamond rings glittering on the fingers of her grandmother. "When I marry," said the child, "I suppose I will get these rings as a wedding present." Up spoke her brother Bob, aged seven. "Not on your sweet life," said he. "You get one of them; the other goes to my wife!"

LEGION HOPES TO SOLVE MYSTERY OF UNWITNESSED DISAPPEARANCES

The American Legion is carrying on the search for solutions to more than 2,000 individual death and disappearance mysteries among soldiers and sailors of the American Expeditionary Forces. These are cases where official action has run its course and terminated with the always brief and sometimes conflicting reports of "missing in action," "killed in battle" or "presumed to be dead." In each case it is claimed that definite or detailed information has not been received by the family of the soldier or sailor in question.

How many more than 2,007 such cases there may be is not known, but the American Legion Weekly has received that number of letters from the kin and friends of missing men. There are instances where it appears that men sailed for France and straightway disappeared from the face of the earth. No conclusive word ever has been received of their fate. There are cases by the score of men reported "wounded" or "slightly wounded" and no other word, until, months later, perhaps, the curt official announcement of "presumed to be dead." Cases are reported of men reported dead, then wounded, later missing, later "returned to duty." But the men have not come home. There are cases where men have been reported dead on a certain date, but members of their families received letters written by their soldier kin's own hand at a later date. There are cases where families have received unofficial report that their soldier kin was seen alive after the date of his official demise.

By far the largest class of letters, however, are those from gold-star mothers seeking word from a comrade who was with her son when he fell. The War Department—which, considering everything, has been remarkably accurate in accounting for casualties—has reported the date and place. Mother desires simply such details as will enable her to reconstruct in her mind—so many write—the scene in which her boy made the great sacrifice.

The "Roll Call" department in the American Legion Weekly where these communications are published is the most poignant personal column in the world. Every item carries its burden of human sorrow or breathes a hope that will not die. It is a column which, in bald brevity, sums up the heroism of the bravest of America and the trials of those who stayed behind and day by weary day carry on the search for those who did not come back. The greatest human interest stories in the world are told in scant paragraphs such as these:

94TH AERO SQUADRON—Homer May, Box 116, Holmden, Okla., would like to hear from someone who knew Lieut. Raymond J. Saunders, and who could give details relative to his death in France and where he was buried. Last seen in combat with twelve enemy planes over Breuille, about fifteen miles northwest of Verdun, Oct. 22, 1918.

In September 1919 mother received notice that "Philo Leonard" had died and was buried in France. She does not believe it is her boy. Comrades are reported to have seen him alive and well in the fall of 1918. Address his sister, Mrs. H. W. Johns, 107 Glenwood Ave., Battle Creek, Mich.

109TH INF., CO. M.—Lieut. Duncan Campbell, wounded Nov. 1, 1918; died Nov. 4; no news after leaving first dressing station. Information wanted by wife, Mrs. Campbell, 19 W. 9th St., New York City.

53TH INF., UNIT—Ruth G. Morgan, last heard of on way to France, August, 1918. Information of her fate desired by E. B. Bauman, Box 364, Ferdinandsburg, Ky.

MISSING IN ACTION—Pvt. Arthur Hill, 361st Inf., wounded in October in Argonne and seen walking off the field. A buddy saw him in a hospital in France. Since then nothing has been heard of him. Family fears he is a mind case in some hospital and has heard rumors that he is under treatment in the United States. Address cousin, W. R. Cawthra, 10 Clay St., Worcester, Mass.

109TH INF., CO. B.—Pvt. Charles James Hunt, wounded, gassed, captured and reported died of wounds. Mother would be grateful for any particulars of the engagement in which her son was wounded and taken. She also wants to know what kind of gas it was and how it affected him. Write Mrs. John L. Hunt, Route Box 29, Mount Union, Pa.

PETER'S PARTNER

By JACK LAWTON.

Far down on the lonely beach was the clubhouse, its door barred for the winter; farther still, quite alone, stood a little house where Peter lived. Old Peter's house was never closed during all the seasons. Each springtime found him whistling with fresh cheer as he planted flowers to his tiny garden, and during the gay months of summer, Peter's porch was usually occupied by eager youngsters from cottages up shore in search of the pretty shell beads or ornaments, which Peter loved to give them.

Now a golden October gave to sea and land one last gift of summer, and Peter sat sunning himself on the porch in his rush-bottomed chair.

A girl came presently like a scarlet bird flying across the sands. Her hair was wind-blown and her cheeks as crimson as the sweater she wore.

"Daddy Peter!" she cried, "when will you remember to wear your coat when you sit outdoors. The air is chill, even in this sunshine." She had reached his side now, seating herself on a step beneath him.

Her appearance brought to old Peter's face a dozen kindly wrinkles of humor and tenderness.

"You will get back at me with your babying, Nell," he said, "just because I happened to bring you up that way."

"You did bring me up Daddy Peter," the girl said softly, "from the time my parents perished in this same sunning sea. I'll never forget that—it was a good bringing up, too. You could not have done more for your own blood."

She raised solemn eyes to his. "I will never forget my debt to you," she said. The words were like a covenant.

"Fie!" scoffed the old man. "Why child, you've paid me over and over again in kindness."

"I will always be kind," the girl added firmly. She lowered her eyes to hide sudden tears.

"Sometimes," said Peter, "I have an uncomfortable fancy that young Dave and you care for each other, but that you won't admit the caring to him for fear your going would leave me in the lurch. Nell!" he spoke earnestly.

"You wouldn't let any nonsense like that keep you from your happiness."

"You are imagining, Daddy Peter," the girl laughed. She patted his wrinkled hand and arose as a young man came swinging toward them.

"I thought," said the big young man, strangely shy, "that you might walk to town with me, Nell."

"Of course," urged Peter. "Go, girl. And Nell went."

The old man looked up surprised as a visitor came walking up.

"Good evening," greeted the stranger. "You won't remember me, but I used to come and sit in your porch while my grandchildren begged for shells. We stopped at the hotel. Today such a longing came over me to smell salt water again and to breathe in the air that I had my daughter's chauffeur drive me out. You see, sir," he added, as Peter offered his own comfortable chair, "I was brought up close to the sea; my father was a fisherman. Well—I made a bit, but no other place has ever spelled home to me. As I get older I seem to want to be near the water. That's why my daughter brought me here last summer. But it wasn't the same." The old gentleman sighed. "One can't take comfort with Jeanette and her children some way, even if Jeanette is my daughter. John—that's her husband, he means well. John's decent to me. But—" the old stranger studied the face of the old seaman, "I wonder," he mused, "if you can possibly know what it means to feel one's self in the way, to be borne with, you understand, and treated pleasantly, but in the way?"

"No," Peter answered. "I don't know what it means to feel like that. I do as I please. No one about to be bothered. Nell, my foster daughter, is teaching school and boarding. She thinks she has got to stay near me, to run in and keep me from being lonely. I'll confess that I get lonesome, evenings. Otherwise my life is pretty happy. I read the books I like, and smoke my pipe, and I'm a master hand at cooking. Winters, with the wind howling 'cross the beach, and my fire glowing inside, some apples baking, mebbe, and me in the lamplight there with the evening paper," said Peter blissfully, "that's peace."

"Yes," excitedly agreed the stranger. "It's freedom and pleasure the year round, I can see that. Then, the feel—of the sea!"

"This is what I came about today. I've been thinking the thing over since I watched you last summer. Could you take a partner in—freedom? Myself, sir. I'd be more than content with my books and you to talk to. Will you share your home, if my money keeps it going?"

Peter's knotted hands grasped the porch rail. A gleam came into his faded eyes.

"Are you sure you mean it, stranger?" he asked. "I bin sitting here today wondering how I could manage through another winter. I don't tell Nell my troubles for I want her to marry the man she loves. I was trying to say goodbye to my home; now you come and offer to keep it for me. Can I—refuse?"

"I hope not," the old gentleman answered gravely.

From the sea came a breeze rustling the crimson leaves of the porch vines. Impulsively the old man clasped hands and on their faces was the light of peace.

It Works Both Ways. Be happy and you will be good.—Albany Journal.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

"Oh, the world is full of countries, but here's one that is my own; It's the land that stood for freedom when it had to stand alone. It's the land that gave a welcome to all men who would be free. Or all the lands around the earth it is the land for me."

FOOD VALUES.

The banana pound for pound is more nutritious than the potato and it constitutes the chief carbohydrate food of millions of people in the tropics, where it takes the place of cereals such as wheat, rice and barley and tubers of all kinds, such as potatoes.

Our government experts at Washington tell us that the banana is not only one of the most nutritious fruits but is one of the most easily digested, which explains some popular theories regarding this fruit.

The banana has still another quality which should highly recommend it. The thick skin which covers it is a protection against all contamination and makes it one of the most sanitary articles of diet.

As to the digestibility of the banana, ripe ones are classed with the easily digested foods, but it is important to see that the fruit is ripe. The skin of the fruit should be dark yellow or covered with brown spots; often the best fruit is found in the skins which are dark brown.

Care should be taken to have the fruit cut from the stalk leaving the skin unbroken.

A ripe banana served with a glass of milk is a satisfying meal for one desiring a light luncheon.

Banana Pie.—Bake a tender pastry shell on an inverted pie tin and when cool fill with thinly sliced banana, sprinkled with salt and lemon juice. Sugar to taste and over all pour a generous cupful of whipped cream sweetened and flavored with almond. Serve well chilled.

Bananas With Steak.—Slice in half a few rather firm bananas; lay in a granite pan with butter, sugar, lemon juice and a sprinkling of salt. Cook in the oven until well done, then serve as a garnish for the steak.

Lamb Chops With Peas.—Broil the chops, having them trimmed uniformly. Arrange on a platter garnished with green peas served in a thick drawn butter sauce.

Old Lumber Best. By a government test in Germany, sound lumber that is 25 years old has been proved materially stronger than new stock.

Nellie Maxwell

"Certainly, the clock is right!"

"Yes, I am always through washing by 9 o'clock, and I never start before seven or eight."

Sounds alluring, doesn't it? But she is just one of the 400,000 women in America who use the

Electric Washing Machine

WITH ALL-METAL SAFETY SWINGING WRINGER

and the very great majority of them bought this wonderful household help by paying

$10 DOWN

and the balance in small monthly payments—just as you can do

This amounts to less—yes, less than you would pay a laundress for one day a week—and you have a better laundress than you could ever hire—a laundress that works for you now and for a lifetime—always on hand when wanted—no meals to get—no fussing. A good sized washing done in an hour—clothes washed spotlessly clean—and much less wear on them.

For 14 years THOR has been recognized as the WASHING MACHINE SUPREME. It is unqualifiedly guaranteed by the Hurley Machine Company and approved by Good Housekeeping Institute.

BUG-OLGY
What do you call them?
Bedbug (Cimex lectularius). The origin of the name bedbug is unknown, but it is supposed to be a naturalist's suggestion. In descriptive terms, they are small, brown, oval, wingless insects, about the size of a pea, and they are found in great numbers in the folds of beds, in cracks in the walls, and in the crevices of furniture. They are found in all parts of the world, and they are particularly common in the United States. They are found in the folds of beds, in cracks in the walls, and in the crevices of furniture. They are found in all parts of the world, and they are particularly common in the United States.

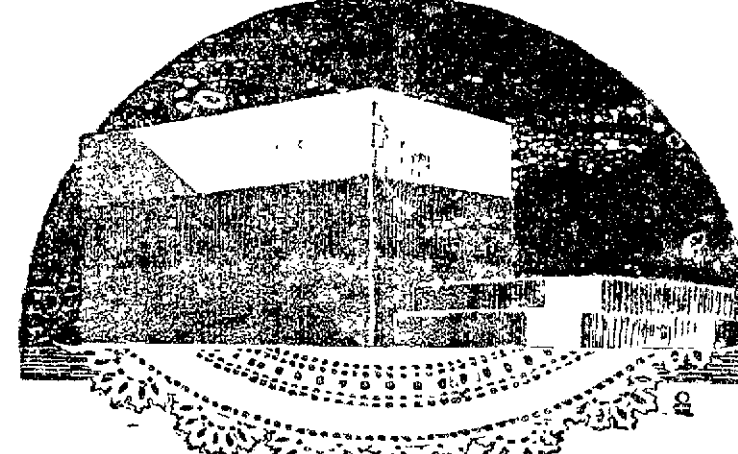

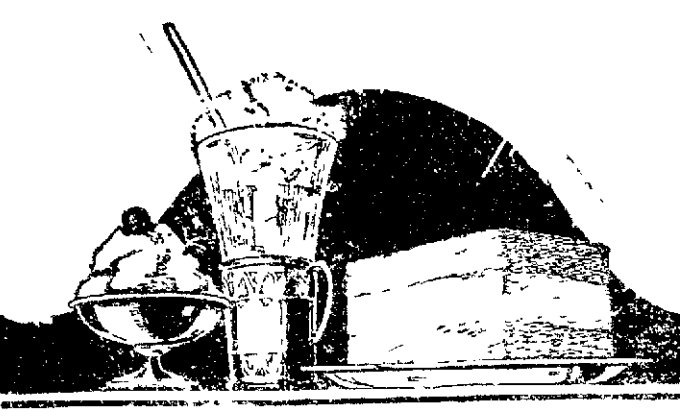

Beginning of Great Industry.
In 1901 a Portuguese bark, Lome, was bound from Madagascar, driven from her course by tempests, was forced to take shelter in the harbor of Charleston, S. C., and the captain in return for courtesies extended him presented Gov. Landgrave Smith with a bag of rice seed, which Smith planted that year in accordance with the captain's instructions, and from this crop spring the present tremendous rice industry in the southern United States.

WHAT THE FARMER HAS TO FACE
WASHINGTON, August 18.—Calling attention to our mounting imports of foodstuffs, the Republican Publicity Association, through its President, Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr., issues the following statement from its Washington headquarters:
"A statement in a recent report of the department of agriculture reads as follows: 'There need be no alarm as to the ability of the United States to hold its own in foreign trade of agricultural products. Even before the great war the export of breadstuffs increased each year. The progress of American agricultural production during the war is an indication of what can be done in the future if prices of agricultural products are high enough to enable the American farmer to compete with other industries for labor.'
"One portion of the above quotation is a bald falsehood, and the remainder is governed by impossible 'ifs'. The whole purpose of the statement is to bolster up the Democratic campaign and the platform of that party, in its reaffirmance of the policy of free trade. Exports of breadstuffs had been increasing yearly under the Republican protective tariff, until by the fiscal year 1913 they had reached $211,000,000. The following fiscal year, 1914, the Democratic tariff law had been in operation nine months, and exports of breadstuffs fell off $16,000,000. During the same period imports of breadstuffs increased $20,000,000 over 1913. The Wilson Underwood law had proven discouraging to agriculture.
"Naturally, after Europe went to war there was an enormous demand for American foods, and this demand was still more enhanced by our own entry into the fracas. And this demand for American foods prevailed throughout 1919 mainly because European tillers had not returned to their fields. But the fiscal year 1920 ended June 30th, last, tells another tale. Exports of breadstuffs fell off $116,000,000, compared with 1919;

Food Value of Potatoes.
That potatoes differ widely in food value is shown by a report of the government's scientific committee. It is laid down that the most useful potato for food is the one which contains the largest amount of dry matter. Where two varieties are practically equal in this respect the nitrogen they contain enters into the estimation of their feeding quality.

Hot Water Each Morning
Puts Roses in Your Cheeks

To look one's best and feel one's best, before putting more food into the stomach, the system the previous day's waste, sorbiments and poisons must be removed. It is absorbed into the blood, just as coal, when it burns, leaves a certain amount of impurities behind in the form of ash. In the same manner, the organs of the body, in the ordinary course of their work, produce a certain amount of waste material which is then carried into the blood through the very veins which are the lifeblood of the body. This waste material, if not removed, will poison the blood and irritate the entire body. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate cost very little at the drug store but is sufficient to demonstrate that just as soap and hot water cleanse, purify and freshen the skin on the outside, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the inside organs. We must always remember that internal sanitation is just as important as external cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, but the internal organs do. Women who desire to enhance the beauty of their complexions should try this for a week and notice results.

Danville, Ill.—"My daughter was very delicate and we thought we could not raise her. She was troubled with irregularity and she was not able to go to school. PROSPERITY BRINGS RESPONSIBILITIES.

One word will explain much in connection with the present abnormal condition in this country—export.

If a very large part of the world stops work for five years; if millions of men withdraw from useful occupations and spend their time in burning and pillaging and destroying property and wealth; if whole nations of skillful workers are without raw materials and machinery and nations become bankrupt; what additional tasks fall upon that portion of the world's population which is permitted to continue the ordinary pursuits and is backed by abundant resources? Little imagination is required to arrive at a conclusion.

When the European war began we were exporting manufactured goods to the value of about $700,000,000 annually. During the past year we have produced and sent out to other nations manufactured articles to the value of $2,850,000,000. Nor is this vast increase wholly to be accounted for by higher prices. The volume of goods is enormously increased. During the past year we have exported 900,000,000 yards of cotton cloth and 20,000,000 pairs of shoes, an amount in both cases nearly twice as much as the exports of 1914.

Much has been said of late concerning the menace to our agriculture from the desertion of the farms by both owners and hired workers. But recent government reports indicate that our farmers are sending abroad foodstuffs amounting in value to four times that received for their exports of 1914. Before the war the high mark for exported foodstuffs was about half a billion dollars, but during the past year other nations bought in the United States food products amounting to more than $2,000,000,000.

Such a condition cannot fail to influence powerfully economic affairs in this country. It is to be reckoned with in any discussion of our industrial relations and, indeed, of our social problems. The wealth of the world is being dumped into the lap of the nation, and opportunities, such as come to a people but once in many generations, challenge our skill, energy and integrity. Never before, perhaps, had the American people greater need of sane leadership, well-chosen representation in government and individual self-control. For prosperity brings its peculiar responsibilities and perils.

Prepare for "Leisure Years"

Long life is not worth while unless it is active. Merely to exist in dull and passive contemplation of the immediate environment invites the verdict, "Better dead." Men and women who hope to live long and retain their faculties should, if a Baltimore physician is to be believed, take a little thought in advance for the work of the "leisure" years.

Cables on the Ocean Bed.

The ocean cable between New York, the Azores and the Irish coast rests on the bed of the ocean. Before 1854 engineers of the United States navy discovered that the ocean bed between Newfoundland and the Irish coast was nearly level and composed of soft mud, apparently an ideal place for an ocean cable.

The Woodcock.

The woodcock provides one of the finest examples of protective coloring that nature has ever made. His bright eyes, however fitted for the night work to which he puts them, are sometimes his betrayer. The female woodcock is larger than the male and its weight varies as widely as to run between eight to twenty-seven ounces. Woodcock is a tremendous glutton, so he is fat. The woodcock can fly either as lazily as a rail or as swiftly as a swallow.

meat and dairy products fell to $395,000,000. On the other hand, imports of foodstuffs and food animals formed nearly 29 per cent. of our $5,239,000,000 worth of imports for 1920, or an absorption by this country of $1,500,000,000 worth of foodstuffs. These are all official figures issued by the Department of Commerce and apparently not credited by the Department of Agriculture.

"At present about 88 per cent. of our unmanufactured foodstuffs in ports are on the free list. All would be free were it not for the duties placed by the Democratic party on peanuts, rice and other products of the south. The truth is that the American farmer is facing a situation which grows worse every month. The demand abroad for his products is decreasing; foreign foods are pouring in, thanks to the free list once more endorsed by the Democratic platform; and the Administration 'cost plus' system succeeded in demoralizing labor to an extent which makes it almost impossible for the farmer to secure help at any reasonable price. He can not compete with other industries or labor. The Republicans have passed a law authorizing association of agricultural producers and other methods calculated to cut across lots to the consumer and to save the farmers from the harpies which prey on their exertions, and the Republicans believe in protecting farm products. The Democrats have passed a law which facilitates getting in debt, but doesn't help the farmer after he has borrowed the money. Harding promises co-operation and the abatement of arbitrary food control which robs the farmer of his just profits and then turns around and hooks the consumer. And we have all got to get behind Harding if we don't want to go hungry before long."

Two Extremes in Suits

FROM the very plain tailored suits of wool to the hand-somely embroidered sport suit of silk is quite a "fine piece," but the interval is filled with cuts that gradually progress from the plain model to its smart rival. Street clothes nowadays have a considerable flavor of sports styles, although there remains, and probably always will remain, the trim, strictly tailored, business-like utility suit that holds the allegiance of American women. This they must have others they may have, and, if circumstances allow, several in varying styles they do have. One of them will be as simple and, we hope, as well tailored as the manish suit pictured another as definitely a sports style as the suit at the right, and others formal or sportish.

Blue serge, it almost goes without saying, is used for the first suit. Its plain skirt has a little flare and is made with box plaits down the front and back. It doesn't take long to describe this very simple affair but it is worth while adding that it is perfectly fitted and tailored.

The clever and unusual coat has slashes at each side, its skirt rounded at the bottom and it is bound with braid. A group of three tucks or cords, stitched in the material and running parallel with the edge of the coat reveals a difficult piece of work done with precision. A panel at the back is simulated by a fold or cord stitched in the material that extends downward from the shoulders and terminates in a rounded end. There are plain coat sleeves and a small collar.

A heavy fiber silk makes the sport suit and a square-necked one-piece dress takes the place of a blouse and skirt to be worn under the coat. The bodice is extended to form a short yoke for the skirt, which is stitched on to it. In this suit it is the skirt that claims most attention for it is heavily embroidered in wool yarn. On the sweater coat a narrow shawl collar diminishes in width on its downward way to the hem, where it terminates. The very wide hem turns up on the right side providing place for deep pockets and the coat has no decoration other than four pearl buttons that finish off the long sleeves. The narrow belt is made of the goods.

PENNA. SPORTSMEN DO NOT BELIEVE IN 'SPITE' PERSECUTION

Clearfield County sportsmen will certainly not endorse very much over the recent action in Cameron county which resulted in Secretary Seth Gordon of the State Game Commission being arrested and fined for violating the game laws by shooting at a bear after bruin is alleged to have crossed under the wire of a state game reserve.

The alleged technical violation of the law was supposed to have occurred during the hunting season of 1919 and information against the game commission official was not made until about eight months after the alleged violation. This information was made by the keeper of the game reserve who was hunting with Gordon at the time, but who apparently did not recall that the last shot was fired after the bear had crossed the road and got under the wire until after the Game Commission saw fit to discharge him from his position for what they considered good and sufficient reasons.

The information was made before a Justice of the Peace who is said to have been a member of a hunting club of which a member or members were fined recently for killing illegal deer, and the Justice is also said to have acted arbitrarily in adjudging the Secretary of the Game Commission guilty and fining him for the alleged offense, regardless of the weight of the evidence for the defense.

According to the testimony of both sides Secretary Gordon shot three shots at the bear and "never touched him." The first shot was fired as the bear was coming down the bank into the road, the second as he came out on the road and the third as he crossed the road and under the wire on the opposite side. The game keeper declared, after he lost his job and eight or nine months after the shooting that the bear was under the wire when the last shot was fired, while Secretary Gordon is just as insistent that it had not reached the wire when the last shot was fired and that he refused to fire again after the bear had reached the game sanctuary.

We have no brief for Secretary Gordon in this matter and know nothing about the facts in the case, as above recited, and which we gathered from both friend and foe to the parties interested, but the whole thing appears at this distance to be so trivial and foolish that we wonder at grown men becoming parties to such little boy's business as bringing a prosecution against any man upon such a flimsy pretense or excuse. If the game keeper in question saw Secretary Gordon or anybody else violating the law back in the fall of 1919 it was his sworn duty to have an information made against him at the time and not wait almost a year and until he was discharged or requested to resign from his position with the Game Commission before deciding that he saw a violation. It sounds too fishy and we refuse to swallow such silly rot.

"No crook e'er felt the halter draw with good opinion of the law," and this also applies to and includes the public officials whose duties require them to see that the law is obeyed and zealous officials oftentimes come in for such annoyances as appear to have been visited upon Secretary Gordon in this case. He has appealed the Justice's finding to the Cameron county courts and the matter will be further ventilated there and the Secretary claims the evidence and all the facts in the case will clearly vindicate him and absolve him from all suspicion of wrongdoing in the matter.

Clearfield county sportsmen went through a long-drawn out battle several years ago, in which personal feeling warped men's better judgment in a contest in which Game Commission officials were involved and we found that it was dirty business and profited no one. The taxpayers of the county were compelled to dig up $2500 to pay the costs of long-drawn out senseless litigation while the interests of all the sportsmen of the county suffered greatly by reason of the bitterness and animosities engendered.

The position of Secretary of the State Game Commission is an exacting one. We believe Secretary Gordon to be a competent and hard-working official, a man of absolute integrity, and instead of the annoyance of such a silly, senseless and far-fetched prosecution he and the State Game Commission should have the support of all honest sportsmen everywhere. They are doing their bit, let us all do ours.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

It is a pleasant thing to reflect upon—that every baby born into the world is a finer one than the last.—Nicholas Nickleby.

WHAT SHALL WE HAVE TO EAT

When there is a cupful or two left of baked or boiled fish, try:

Turban of Fish.—Scald one and one-half cupfuls of milk with one slice of onion, a blade of mace and a sprig of parsley; remove the seasonings. Melt one-fourth of a cupful of butter, add the same amount of flour, half a teaspoonful of salt, a few dashes of cayenne, then add the scalded milk gradually and two well-beaten yolks. Put a layer of fish on a buttered dish, sprinkle with salt and pepper and add a few drops of lemon juice. Cover with sauce, continuing with the fish and sauce, shaping in a pyramid form. Cover with buttered crumbs and brown in a hot oven.

Macaroni and Cheese in the Fireless Cooker.—Boil one cupful of macaroni fifteen minutes, adding one teaspoonful of salt to a quart of boiling water. Rinse, drain and place in a casserole. Fill the dish with milk, stir in one tablespoonful of flour cooked in two tablespoonfuls of butter long enough to blend it. Add one cupful of grated cheese and sprinkle thickly with paprika. Pack in a cooker between two moderately heated radiators, using one radiator as a cover to the casserole. Bake one and one-half hours. Do not heat the stones too hot or the dish will be baked hard and dry.

Salmon Box.—Line a bread pan slightly buttered with warm, cooked rice well seasoned, cooking it in broth of milk if possible. Skim milk will do nicely. Fill the center with cold-baked salmon flaked and seasoned with salt, pepper and a slight grating of nutmeg. Cover with rice and steam one hour. Turn out on a hot platter and surround with an egg sauce. The egg sauce is a simple drawn butter sauce to which the beaten yolks of two eggs are added with a teaspoonful of lemon juice.

Fried Egg Plant.—Pare and cut in thin slices. File the slices on a platter, sprinkling each slice with salt, cover with a plate and weight. Let stand one hour, drain, rinse each slice in cold water, dip in beaten egg, then in seasoned crumbs and fry until brown.

ANTONIO MORENO

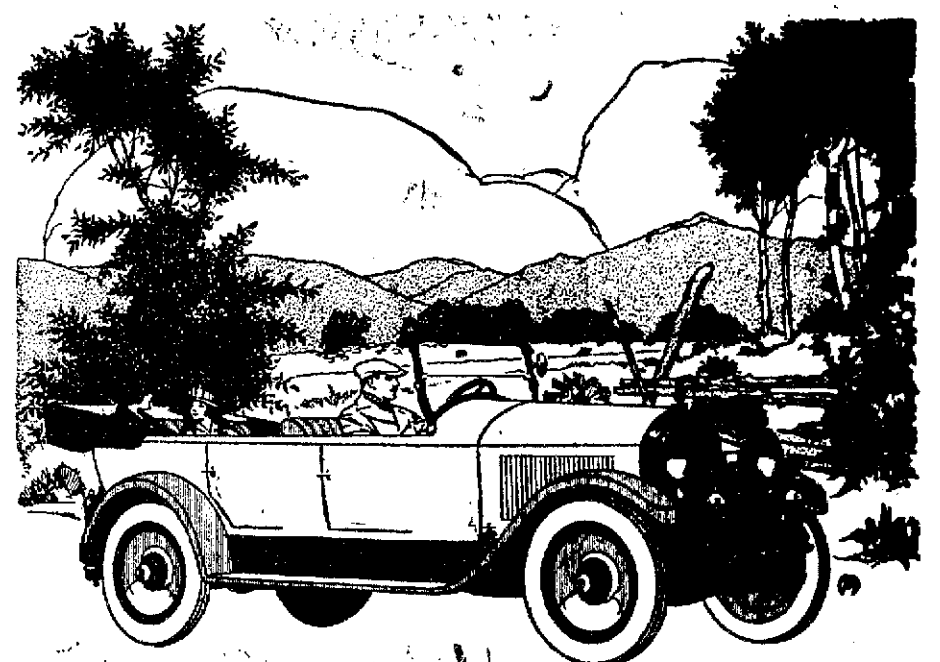

Antonio Moreno was a small boy when his father died. Eager to assist his mother by sharing part of the family burden he obtained a position as baker's clerk. For this service he received the princely sum of two dollars a week. Although he liked his position, this Spanish lad had dreams of making a fortune. He had seen wealthy American tourists in his native town and they awakened ambition in his breast. He resolved to save his money and go to the land of promise.

The Americans who visited Campamento were all supposed to be millionaires. Into the mind of Antonio Moreno came dreams, dreams of wealth that lay across the great ocean. He became determined to go to the United States and make a fortune.

When Antonio Moreno, at the age of fifteen, walked up the gangplank from the Gibraltar docks to an American steamship, he was in reality crossing the bridge from nonentity to fame. Aboard the boat was one of America's most distinguished actresses, Miss Helen Ware. Her attention was attracted to the handsome lad with the fiery eyes, and she became interested in him. "What do you intend to do when you reach America?" inquired Miss Ware.

"Make a fortune," promptly replied young Antonio. Miss Ware smiled at his confidence and replied, "I think you will find both fame and fortune in the theater if you chose to become an actor."

The prophecy is now being realized. Antonio Moreno as the star of such Vitaphone serials as "The Iron Test" and "Perils of Thunder Mountain," is earning international fame and a considerable fortune. While in New York recently he signed a two year contract with the Vitaphone Company and recently finished a serial production dealing with secret service, entitled "The Invisible Hand."

APPRECIATES AID OF LEGION

Federal Vocational Training Board
Commends Consideration and Cooperation in Connecticut.

Thomas J. Brannigan, director of the service department of the American Legion at Hartford, Conn. has received this letter from Thomas Kirby, central office eligibility officer for the United States at New Haven, Conn.

"Before leaving Connecticut I desire on behalf of the chief of Washington and the whole federal board to express sincere appreciation for the consistent consideration and hearty cooperation of the American Legion during our stay in this state.

"There is commendable satisfaction and justifiable pride as we see these men, bearing the honorable scars of national service, marching into the dawn of a new era in their lives to become more valuable to themselves and to the country and in the success that has attended our efforts the wholehearted support of our organization has been a conspicuous asset.

"While we are to be physically separated from you you may be assured the triple chain of appreciation, respect and esteem that has bound you close to us during our brief but strenuous campaign will continue in fact, and in the future the Legion has my suggestions that might aid us in our work they will receive the most respectful and serious consideration of the high authorities of the board.

Mr. Brannigan also is the adjutant of the department of Connecticut.

Such Lightness!

Such Cleanliness!
—when washed with a

Thor Electric
Washing Machine
With its All-Metal Swinging Wringer

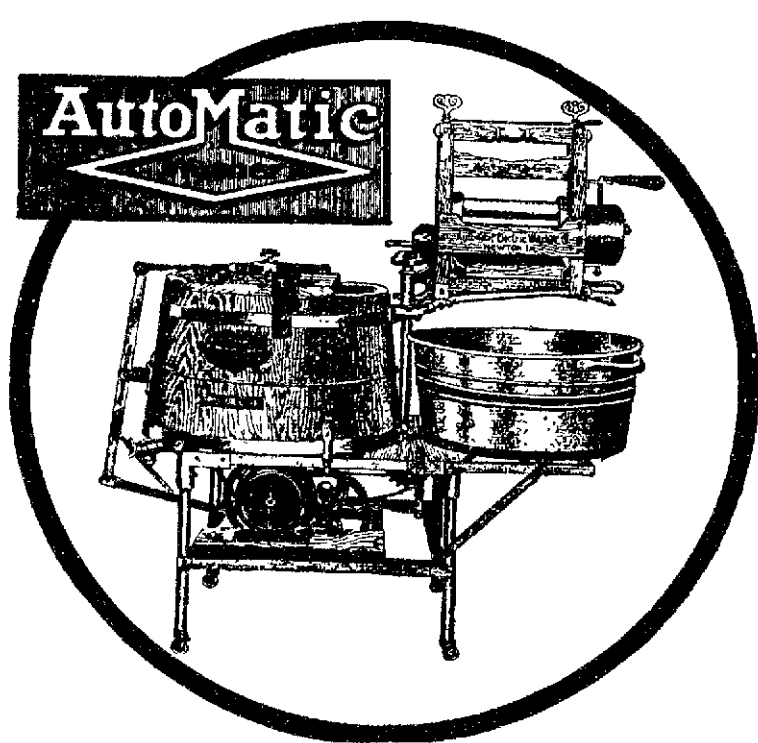

Do you remember the times when you have washed a blanket in the old-fashioned way by hand? Not a very pleasant recollection, is it?

How you wrestled with that wet, soggy mass that seemed to weigh a ton? How you rubbed it a part of the time and wished it about and tried to get it clean when you knew you were not half succeeding.

And when the grilling task was over and you took it off the line—it didn't have the pretty, soft, woolly surface you wanted to see. There was something about it that didn't look quite right—and you wondered if you had actually driven all of the dirt out of it.

What a difference when you use the THOR! No struggle with that exhausting weight—none of that tiring rubbing on the washboard. You just put the blanket into the cylinder, press the button and let the machine do the work. In a little while it is washed perfectly clean.

Simply fasten the cord in any electric light socket, press lightly on the foot controller and guide the work as it glides under the needle—you can make a stitch at a time slowly or speed it up to 800 stitches a minute.

When it is not in use it is enclosed in the compact, dust proof case and put away on a shelf.

It can be operated for a fraction of a cent an hour. Come in and let us tell you all about it.
